We Shall Grow Again We're Healthy, Says Mr. Ecker, Very Big Pinwheel. Horrified Is Correct.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

YOUR COUNTRY grows rapidly. George M. Reynolds announces his retirement as head of the Continental Illinois National Bank because, at 65, he wants "the remaining years of my life to be free from business," and reminds you how rapidly things grow in this country.

"When I came to Chicago in December, 1897 (only 35 years ago), the population was 1,800,000. It is now about 3,000,000. When I came to Chicago its bank deposits were $380,000,000. They are now more than three thousand millions."

He who thinks this little depression can stop such growth as that for all time doesn't know his own country.

You have heard it said: "Everything is all right as long as I have my health." Uncle Sam can say that, despite the depression, for he has his health.

Mr. Frederick Ecker, head of the Metropolitan Life Company, finds that 1932 has been the healthiest year in our history.

Deaths among Metropolitan policyholders, among whom a large number have borne the brunt of unemployment, were fewer than in any other year. That is partly due to the fact that people have lived more soberly, eating moderately, using less alcohol, and due also to Mr. Ecker's wise policy of advertising widely sound information on how to keep well, and live longer.

The greatest advertisement is the rainbow, full page wide, with colors put in the heavens to advertise an end of floods. That magnificent advertisement turns out to be a small thing compared with fireworks that exist in space.

Prof. Dugan, of Princeton, describes a "cosmic pinwheel" made up of two balls of fire, as big as 24 of our suns, whirling in space at the rate of a million miles an hour. And it whirls in a space less than twenty million miles wide. Just like the pinwheel you used to fasten to an apple tree.

It is hard to imagine a pinwheel 24 times as big as our sun, because our sun is ONE MILLION TIMES AS BIG AS THIS EARTH, and our little brains cannot even imagine the size of the earth.

The Democratic party may reach March 4 with everybody horrified. Those that know how rapidly a national deficit of a hundred million dollars a month can accumulate will be horrified at the statement that the new President is horrified at the thought of the sales tax.

Experienced brewers, who know something about beer and taxes on beer, are horrified at the suggestion that legal beer will produce a tax of five hundred millions a year, with no way of distributing beer on a big scale.

The world talks of extraordinary acnievements by French canon of universal range during the big war. It talks or changes made in history by the introduction of powder and bullets. It may in future years talk with more enthusiasm about destruction of deadly germs by radio waves.

Ann Arbor, Mich., scientists show that high frequency currents, like those used by short wave radio amateurs, have a deadly effect on germs of the typhoid group. The germs multiplied more slowly after the first attack of the current, then the increase stopped, and the germs that would soon have increased to countless millions died, and that was the end of them.

Some day you may see scientists bombarding the Holy Ganges river with high frequency current, to keep Asiatic diseases from spreading westward, and you may see New York, which floods its rivers on both sides with sewage, counteracting the evil by shocking the germs to death.

Long ago we learned how to slay the mammoth, wolf and bear. We are just learning to conquer our more deadly invisible enemies.

A crowd outside the prison protested violently, not against the hanging, but against the fact that the hangman was an Englishman, named Pierpont.

Fiery speeches were made outside the prison, and a banner displayed with the words: "British hangman destroys Irishman; is this justice?" The protest was made in spite of the fact that the Free State has no hangman.

That is what you might call "race prejudice."

France soon will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the death of Leon Gambetta French

DIVER FAILS IN HUNT FOR PLANE

Efforts to recover the bodies of two wealthy Harvard freshmen, killed in a plane crash off Nahant late yesterday, met with a serious reverse today when Fred Wallace, deep-sea diver, of Somerville reported that coast guards were mistaken in supposing they had located the spot where the wreckage of the plane lies.

Meanwhile a storm was brewing, threatening to balk all efforts to recover the bodies until they are washed ashore, perhaps at some distant spot.

The victims of the tragedy were Donald McKay Frost, Jr., 19, of Exeter st. Back Bay, and Edward Mallinckrodt, 20 of St. Louis.

Wallace, after an hour on the bottom, reported finding no sign of the wreckage. He said the dragging line from the patrol boat CG-159 was hooked on rocks.

Tide and currents had evidently swept the plane to some spot far from where witnesses of the crash saw the ship dive into the water. The bodies may or may not be in the wreckage.

The water is approximately 30 feet deep at the point where Wallace combed the bottom. The main Lynn sewer pours in about 75 feet away.

Preparations for taking care of the bodies, if found, were made by Chief Boisun's Mate Ralph Rich, commander of the Nahant Coast Guard station. Rich received many calls during the day from Harvard friends of the two students, inquiring as to the progress of the search and offering assistance.

MILLIONS ARE LOPPED OFF BY HOUSE

Over $12,000,000 Is Sliced Off Amount Set for Tax Refunds

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—The first deficiency bill, to provide $31,421,000 to meet immediate needs of the government was reported today by the House appropriations committee.

It cut $12,285,188 off the administration's budget estimates. Reducing from $40,000,000 to $28,000,000 the amount for refunds of illegally or erroneously collected internal revenue taxes the committee said it believes the sum asked by the Treasury "to be excessive."

Other items in the measure are $1,000,000 for the agriculture department to be used in fighting forest fires; $1,212,683 to settle authorized claims and court judgments against the government; $625,000 for emergency relief in the District of Columbia; $177,983 for the federal hospital for defective delinquents in Springfield, Mo., and $250,000 for the U. S. Employment Service.

It carried $36,900 for the widows of four representatives who died recently. Daniel E. Garrett of Texas; Charles A. Karch of Illinois, J. Charles Linthicum of Maryland and Henry St. George Tucker of Virginia.

The committee complied with Speaker Garner's protest against an outlay of $240,631 for enlargement and beautification of the Capitol grounds and declined to report it.

A legislative provision restoring the limit of cost of the Philadelphia Naval Hospital to $3,000,000 also is carried in the measure. Last year it was reduced to $2,250,000, but the committee said that in order to obviate construction by veterans' hospital in that vicinity, it was decided to restore the full amount.

The labor department plans to close 30 to its 141 employment offices by July 1. Sec. Doak disclosed to the appropriations committee in behalf of a budget bureau request for $200,000 to keep the employment offices open for the first six months of 1933.

THUGS CHASE FALL RIVER CLERKS IN HOLDUP

Force Car Into Curb, Seize Money Bag and Escape

Fall River, Dec. 30—At the end of a desperate half-mile race, four masked and armed bandits crowded a paymaster's car against a gate of Arkwright Mill No. 2 today and escaped with a $21,000 payroll.

The holdup was executed only two blocks from Fall River police headquarters, and within 15 minutes, 12 state police cruiser cars, with short wave radio equipment, were blocking off roads in the direction the bandits had taken.

Bernard Swales, company paymaster, was in a company sedan with Raymond Parent and Certram Clegg, armed clerks acting as guards, when in Jefferson st., near the mill, the bandit car began to draw up alongside.

Sighting the masks on the four men, the driver of the mill car stepped on his accelerator and speeded ahead, the two racing machines whirling into Rodman st. and heading for the mill gate.

The bandit car was too speedy, however, and just as the payroll car was turning into the gate the bandit machine crowded it into a granite, upright and three of the bandits sprang out.

While two of the masked bandits covered the three mill men, the other seized the leather money pounch in the back seat, threw it into the bandit car and then the holdup trio jumped in.

The paymaster and his guards turned over to police the registration number, "Mass. 331,258," but this was found to be assigned to Louis A. Harrington of County st., whose car, of a different make, had been parked safely at a nearby garage all night and was still there. Police believe the bandits used a duplicate set of plates.

DR. OVERHOLT'S TROTH BROKEN

Breaking of the engagement of Dr. Richard H. Overholt, Boston physician, and Miss Clara Dorothea Jenkins, Pittsburgh society girl, was revealed today with her parents' announcement that she would marry Edwin H. Rhea of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Overholt and Miss Jenkins became engaged last April when announcement was made, and they were to have been married in the fall. Today's announcement was the first disclosure that the wedding was not only delayed, but called off.

Rhea is a Princeton graduate and Rhodes scholar, and his marriage to Miss Jenkins will take place next June. The girl and her parents refused to discuss the broken engagement.

City Faces $80,000 Water Suit Loss

The city of Boston has no right to shut off water against a new owner for a former owner's unpaid water bills, Judge Walter L. Collins ruled today in a test case in Suffolk Superior Court.

As a result of the decision, various Boston banks, owners of property under foreclosure, are expected to file claims for rebates against the city amounting to more than $80,000, which they had paid under protest.

The decision ends a long controversy. The test case was brought by Atty. Harold R. Donahue for the Trimont Co-operative Bank and dealt with properties at 28 Rockland st., 1 Codman pl. and 7 Newark st.

Providence, Dec. 30—In a spectacular suicide, the motive for which is a puzzle, James Ira Sheppard, 40, one of the city's foremost lawyers, leaped 123 feet into Mount Hope Bay today from the mile-long Mount Hope bridge, connecting Bristol and Portsmouth.

In his car, parked at one end of the bridge, was a note addressed to his wife. It read:

"I couldn't face the New Year penalty."

Several saw him jump. His body, landing in 40 feet of water, was not recovered.

Shepard, a graduate of Brown and of Harvard Law School, was chairman of the grievance committee of the Rhode Island Bar Association. He was formerly associated in practice with U. S. Atty. Henry M. Boss, Jr., and Federal Judge Ira L. Letts. He was a veteran.

All Norwood paused in silence today as a small white casket bearing the broken body of little Anneky Keras, nine-year-old victim of a fiendish crime, was escorted by seven small, white-clad girl playmates into the Lithuanian Church in St. James ave.

Five hundred persons packed the little church where only last Sunday Anneky had gone with her playmates to mass on Christmas Day. Hundreds of others stood outside in silence.

As the casket was slowly moved up the aisle to a pince before the altar, fathers and mothers of other little girls turned away sobbing.

As he turned to intone the prayers for the repose of the soul of Anneky, Mrs. Keras screamed and collapsed.

"My Nellie!" she sobbed over and over as she was led from the church.

Just before the body was removed from the house Anna Keras, six, sister of the slain girl, became hysterical and had to be left at home in charge of neighbors.

Following the mass, a long and sorrowful procession moved out to Highland cemetery, where the body of Anneky was lowered to a premature grave.

As the seven little pallbearers tossed their white gloves on the casket, Mrs. Keras became hysterical, and attempted to leap into the grave. She was restrained by relatives and taken home.

Meanwhile, Ahmed Osmun, 38, and his cousin, Ali Osman, 42, were under heavy guard at Dedham jail, charged with having, brutally murdered Anneky after assaulting her.

Mustache Fools Cops, Almost Foils Justice

The law was almost frustrated in Cambridge today and all because of a mustache.

Yes, a mustache.

The scene is laid in the East Cambridge district courtroom. Court Clerk William A. Forbes called the name of Horace Maher, Jr., 46, of Western ave., Cambridge, charged with drunken driving, using an automobile without authority, drunkenness and driving without a license.

A man stepped forth. And so did Patrolmen James D. Russell and Raymond Patten of the Cambridge police, the arresting officers.

"Your Honor," bellowed both policemen, "this is not the man we arrested."

Judge Louis L. Green looked perplexed. Clerk Forbes looked astonished and the spectators broke into gales of laughter.

"The man we arrested had a smooth face and didn't have a mustache," said the officers in unison.

"I'm the man they arrested, your honor," said Maher. "I grew the mustache in jail."

Judge Green then meted him a sentence of two months in the House of Correction and a $10 fine.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BULB IMPORTS THREATEN TRADE HERE

JAP BULBS BRING HIGH BILLS, SAYS SALEM MANUFACTURER

Americans who bought imported light bulbs in 1931 not only deprived 1230 American citizens of their jobs and $1,865,000 in wages, but also spent $11,000,000 more for electricity than they would have spent by using American bulbs.

These figures, graphically illustrating another phase of the national "Buy American" campaign augmented by the Hearst newspapers, were furnished today by Edward J. Poor, chairman of the board of Hygrade Sylvania Corp., which has plants in Salem, St. Marys, Pa., and Emporium, Pa.

E. J. Poor

BULBS ARE POORER

The figures have increased enormously since 1931 and there is bitter irony in the thought that most of the ordered bulbs used to spread the cheer of the Yuletide came from Japan—to increase the suffering and economic instability in the United States.

"I can see this plant cold in a year if the buying of foreign lamps continues," said Poor at the Salem factory.

Not only are the imported light bulbs poorer in quality and infinitely more expensive in operation, but they are unlabeled as to watts and are directly degraded in many instances to pass as American products.

The tide of enthusiastic approval and support that started rising when the "Buy American" campaign was launched Tuesday continued yesterday through the ranks of New England industry today.

COSTS WORKERS JOBS

Many New England industries, like the Hygrade Sylvania Corp., have been hard hit by the unchecked absorption of inferior merchandise flooding the United States from such countries as Japan and Czechoslovakia where the cost of production is at a minimum.

Highlights of developments as they affect the bulb industry were as follows:

1—Passed that Japanese incandescent lamps, while costing less in some cases than American bulbs, use far more electricity and are unlabeled.

2—Boston Better Business Bureau campaign against misrepresentation of foreign goods in the bulb field and co-operative action with the Bureau of Standards showing the Japanese bulb labeled 5 watts actually to be an 11.3 watt lamp; the bulb labeled 40 watts to be a 34.5 lamp, and the bulb labled 25 watts to be a 24.4 lamp.

3—State-wide campaign against the foreign merchandise by the Electrical League of Rhode Island.

Poor said that the sale of foreign bulbs here is depriving 1595 American workers of their jobs this year.

INDUSTRY BORN HERE

It is estimated that in 1931 the American people could have obtained the same amount of light from American bulbs at a total saving of $11,000,000 spent for electricity current for foreign bulbs. There are other bulbs that imported lamps are sold at lower prices in the United States than in the country of their origin.

Importations of cheap lamps leaped from 19,000,000 large and 18,000,000 small in 1928 to 34,000,000 large and 34,000,000 miniature during the first seven months of 1932.

"The incandescent lamp industry was born in America," said Poor. "The Japanese and others now invading our field have contributed nothing to the development and are simply taking advantage of a favorable situation due to the depreciation of their currency, gaining profit for themselves on work the Americans performed."

The three Japanese bulbs sent by the Boston Better Business Bureau to the bureau of standards at Washington for official test, each one came within the federal specifications for government purchase of 25c. This was the 25 watt bulb.

Standard Oil and Dollar Line Heads Back Buy American

San Simeon, Cal., Dec. 30—The following telegrams have been received by William Randolph Hearst in the Buy American campaign from K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Co. of California, and R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Line:

FROM MR. KINGSBURY

I have read with the greatest interest the editorials on Buy American in the San Francisco Examiner. Our industrial and banking committee of the Twelfth Federal Reserve district, composed of financial and industrial leaders representing the entire Pacific West, has recognized the menace to our national welfare brought about by the interest in a flood of goods from competing countries where depreciated currencies have lowered manufacturing costs to a point against which the American manufacturer cannot possibly compete.

K. R. Kingsbury

R. Stanley Dollar

The American workman has never been asked to compete with such low wages and he should not be asked to do so now. From its examination of the situation our committee feels that this is the most important single factor in the unemployment situation. The Buy American movement leads directly to amelioration of one of the country's gravest ailments. It should have full public support. Your advocacy will be of the greatest value in that direction.

However, there is a still further step for a final solution of this grave problem. National legislation is needed to protect the American worker and manufacturer. This is a new thing brought about by recent depreciation of currencies in foreign countries and our present laws are inadequate to meet it.

Your patriotic effort to arouse American public opinion will prove a most important aid in recovering relief from Congress. Kindest personal regards and season's greetings.

FROM MR. DOLLAR

Dear Mr. Hearst: I have read with great interest your articles on Buy American. I was particularly impressed by your reference to American manufacture, of which I have been such a staunch supporter.

Your ideas cannot help but bring said benefit to our country, and the way you have stated this it will not be interpreted as a retaliatory measure toward any other nation but to impress upon Americans the value of supporting American industries.

Over $500,000,000 freight money is paid annually by importers and exporters in United States, of which three-fifths goes to foreign lines and two-fifths to Americans. This will give you some idea of the magnitude of this one phase of the problem.

I wish to thank you and congratulate you upon the stand which you are taking in this matter. Kindest regards.

R.F.C. LOANS TOP $1,000,000,000

Washington, Dec. 30 (INS)—Actual cash advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have been $1,502,168,401, with repayments by borrowers of $283,049,032, according to figures made public today.

Banks, railroads and other borrowers of that type have made repayment of $268,406,262, while smaller sums have been repaid by all classes of borrowers.

Banks have been advanced $807,779,746, being the largest class of borrowers. A total of 5382 institutions received loans. The banks have repaid $233,587,301.

Total organizations for banks, railroads and others of that group amounted to $1,541,906,376. The corporation has agreed to buy securities of the par value of $146,535,000 to aid in financing self-liquidating projects.

The corporation so far has received $500,000,000 from Treasury purchases of capital stock and $700,000,000 on notes bearing 3½ percent interest. The corporation had paid the Treasury interest of $7,608,904 up to Oct. 31, with an additional $2,369,999 accrued on notes in November, but is not yet due.

Loans to railroads were used chiefly for payment of interest and to retire bonds.

Albany, Dec. 30 (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt today promised Mrs. Mary Mooney, mother of the imprisoned Tom Mooney, that he would write a letter in behalf of Mooney to Gov. Rolph of California.

Mr. Roosevelt told Mrs. Mooney he would write to Rolph after he retires as governor.

Racer, Missing Girl, Arrested in Revere

Howard E. Cole, 29, auto racer, known as Buckley Collins, and Daisy Sinclair, 19-year-old Hyde Park girl he tried to marry last August, were arrested today in a lodging house at Revere Beach.

Both had been sought since August 15, when the girl vanished from her home, 11 Linwood st. Their marriage after a threeday courtship was blocked when officials learned that Cole had a wife and child dilving in Boston whom he deserted years ago.

LONG-LOST KIN HELD AS FAKE

The joy which was little Evelyn Grant Olson's last July in a reunion with her long-lost "brother" turned to pain today in Bradford, R. I., and Elmer Grant, 22 formerly of Hyde Park ave., Jamaica Plain, was under police questioning.

Police believe that Grant has been playing impostor with 16-year-old Evelyn who was parted from her brother when she was only one year-old and they were left orphans.

Last July the girl, adopted at the age of one by Mrs. John Olson of Bradford—while her brother went into an orphanage, from which he ran away four years later when he was ill—asked police to aid in finding him.

Grant communicated with her, claiming he was the brother, and Mrs. Olson took him into her home. A short time ago, however, Mrs. Olson told police, she found letters indicating that he had answered similar appeals from other persons to find long-lost brothers.

She questioned him about his movements since he was 11, and about the orphange, and then began quietly checking on his answers, discovering, she said, that they did not check at all. Then she informed police.

On the way to the station today, according to police, Grant snatched several of the letters and tore them to bits.

statesman who declared a French republic when the Germans were besieging Paris, and escaped from the city in an old-fashioned balloon, at the mercy of the wind. The basket in which Gambetta sat as the balloon lifted him up will be exhibited.

Gambetta was, to a large extent, the father of the anti-religious feeling in France, which has spread to other Latin countries. The French adopted Gambetta's brief, often repeated slogan of attack, Le cléricalisme, voilà l'ennemi. "Clericalism, there is the enemy."

Business picked up in the Sing Sing death house during 1932, with 28 criminals executed in the electric chair, a new record. The highest previous total was 17, in 1922. In 1906, nobody was executed in the prison. Since 1891, when the electric chair was first used, 327 men and women have sat in that chair, getting up in some other world.

Mr. Lawes, prison warden, who ought to know, says capital punishment, brutalizing what social civilization does not prevent or discourage crime.

An important industrial war ends in England.

Workers in the Lancashire textile industry agree to operate six looms, instead of four, which modern machinery makes easy. This means industrial peace in one direction. Pending agreements between railroad owners and railroad workers point to peace in another direction.

ROOSEVELT 'TO BE POWERFUL; NO DICTATOR'

Garner of Tells Plan of Next President for Economy Sweep

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Speaker Garner said at his press conference today that President-elect Roosevelt "is not afraid to take all the responsibility Congress will give him" in connection with the Democratic plan to permit him to reorganize the government for economy reasons.

The Vice President-elect was asked if the Democrats "are going to give Mr. Roosevelt the powers of a dictator?"

"I don't think he wants to be a dictator," Garner replied. Whatever power Congress gives to the President, it can take away. That's provided in the Constitution."

Garner said the Democrats would give the next President broad authority to abolish bureaus, consolidate agencies and such other powers ass are needed to effect economy.

In addition, in their economy program, they plan, hes said, to repeal permanent and indefinite appropriati ns, which, exclusive of the sinking fund requirements of the public debt, amount to about $140,000,000 a year. This would permit the President to pass on them in the customary budgetary manner.

Garner said the principle of the Democratic proposal to give the incoming President power to shift the government structure was "the same" as that in President Hoover's request that was denied last spring by the House Democrats.

UNCLE SAM BIG PURCHASER OF ALIEN GOODS

Industries Starve as Foreign Products Flood Capital

Washington, Dec. 30 (US)—While American industries are starving for want of buyers for their products, Uncle Sam has been purchasing foreign goods for the federal government.

This was disclosed today as a check-up revealed that members of Congress, enjoying luncheon in the Senate and House restaurants, eat on table cloths of Irish linen. House members sit on chairs made in Czechoslovakia.

Employes in the new commerce department building do their work of "expanding American markets" all over the world," on and among furnishings almost entirely from Czechoslovakia.

SOAP FROM ABROAD

And in the House and Senate office buildings, the soap, towels, and combs come from abroad.

Representative Fred E. Hull, (R.) of California disclosed that even the aluminum used in Uncle Sam's battleships in recent years has come from Germany, and that the cement used in War Department fortifications built in Hawaii last year came from Japan.

He said matches in the Capitol building come from Russia and Sweden. Snuff boxes in the Senate Chamber come from Japan.

U. S. PRODUCTS URGED

Some time ago Congress inserted into all but five appropriation bills a provision that wherever possible American products must be sought in preference to foreign products, even though the price may be higher. The five that did not carry the provision were for the Departments of Labor, Interior, Commerce, and Agriculture, and the District of Columbia. Efforts are being made to apply the provision to these departments this year.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has adopted a rule that loans for construction projects granted by it are on the condition American materials be used throughout.

U. S. Mills Paralyzed by Imports of Steel

Washington, Dec. 30 (US)—Cold figures released by the Commerce Department tell why American mills are paralyzed and thousands of American workers are trudging the streets in the vain search for employment.

During the first 11 months of this year, foreign countries shipped 348,892 tons of iron and steel products into the United States. Failure to Buy American meant heavy losses in wages and work to American citizens. Imports were 80 per cent of the exports.

In November 40,166 tons of iron ore were imported. Soviet Russia topped the list, supplying 15,500 tons, followed by Norway, 13,616 tons, and Cuba, 11,000 tons.

St. Mary Major Basilica, Built in 300, Found?

Rome, Dec. 30 (AP)—The apse of the ancient basilica of St. Mary Major, built 16 centuries ago, is thought to have been uncovered during work on the basilica erected thereon by Pope Sixtus a century later.

During the erection of scaffolding for restoration of frescoes part of the stone floor was removed, revealing what appeared to be a circular opening which is being studied by Prof. Biagio Bingetti of the Vatican Archaeological Commission.

According to legend, the basilica was built upon a spot where snow fell on August 5 after the Virgin appeared simultaneously to Pope Liberius and Patrician John, who had vowed his entire fortune to religion and with the help of the Pope built the original church where the mid-summer snow fell.

Car of Hearst Steers Brings Joy to Los Angeles Needy

Los Angeles, Dec. 30—Of the 100 steers given by William Randolph Hearst as Christmas presents to needy families of Los Angeles and San Francisco, the first of the carloads destined for this city arrived here yesterday and today will be turned into juicy steaks and roasts.

To thousands of local homes, where such delicacies have been unknown for months, the beef raised on the Hearst range at San Simeon will be distributed by S. M. Bond, financial chairman of the Los Angeles food conservation warehouse.

LAUD "FINEST GENEROSITY"

In the carload, which arrived yesterday at the stockyards of the Cudahy Packing Co. plant, where the cattle will be prepared for the tables, were 25 thoroughbred Herefords.

As he made arrangements for the slaughter of the initial consignment of steer, Bond described the gifts as "one of the finest examples of Christmas generosity ever known." He said:

"The meat will not only provide nourishment for thousands of men, women and children, but it will help the heads of thousands of families keep up their morale during these times of stress.

"The warehouse serves 3500 families and those who are able are allowed to work there in exchange for the food they receive. This gives them the feeling that they are earning livelihoods for themselves and families and are not dependent on charity.

GIFT PRESERVES MORALE

"When prosperity returns, the value of maintaining such an attitude in the nation's breadwinners will be incalculable. Because their morale has been maintained they will, without difficulty, be able to begin their work where they left off when the economic crisis descended upon us.

"And it is through the generosity of such men as Mr. Hearst, who realize the needs of their country and give so generously of their means, that this morale can be preserved and the courage of the nation upheld."

Lenore Ulric Asks $1500 in Salary Suit

New York, Dec. 30—Lenore Ulric has brought suit for $1500 against A. C. Blumenthal, producer, for salary allegedly due for her performance in the play "Nona," it was learned today.

Lenore Ulric

Blumenthal denies he owes the actress anything and said he will fight the case. He said he produced the show at the insistance of Miss Ulric, who thought she could make it a success. When they saw it was a failure he said he and the actress reached an oral agreement through which she waived that clause in her contract calling for $1500 a week.

Mexican Envoy to U. S. Named to New Post

Mexico City, Dec. 30—Jose Manuel Puig-Casauranc, Mexican ambassador to the United States, has been appointed foreign minister, it was learned today. The appointment was made last night. He will be succeeded in Washington by Eduardo Suarez, former counselor of the foreign office and former chief of the Mexican delegation at Geneva.

Ambassador Puig-Casaurance

The ministry of Gobernacion announced the appointments.

British Plan to Free Gandhi From Jail

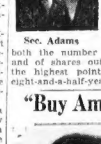
London, Dec. 30—Release of Mahatma Gandhi from jail at Poona, India, is provided for in a British program for disposal of 20,000 Indian political prisoners, drawn up on the recommendation of India leaders that such a gesture on New Year's Day would make for better Anglo-Indian feeling.

Mahatma Gandhi

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary of state for India, was urged by Indian advisers to effect Gandhi's release in order to make more favorable to Britain the Indian mind

Adams New Director of Investors Trust

Washington, Dec. 30—Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, has been elected a member of the advisory board of Massachusetts Investors Trust, according to word received here.



Sec. Adams

Before he became Secretary of the Navy, Adams was treasurer of Harvard College and director or trustee of over 50 companies. He joins Massachusetts Investors Trust at a time when both the number of shareholders and of shares outstanding are at the highest point in the trust's eight-and-a-half-year history.

POLICE, EXTRA DRY AGENTS TO KEEP NEW YEAR LID ON TIGHT

HOTCHA BEFORE OR AFTER O. K.; NONE SUNDAY

Old Laws Keep New Year Pure on Its 1st Day in Town

The old year slithered and slid along today toward a hit of rocky finish and police warned that those who celebrate its passing tomorrow night must cease at exactly midnight in public places—or else!

Likewise those who prefer to administer a slightly joyful kick at the departed calendar and welcome with more joy the New Year when it is 24 hours in ascendancy must not start Sunday night until exactly midnight—or else! . . .

BOOZE, WHAT IS IT?

The police end of the New Year's celebrations is merely that the Sunday laws must be obeyed, and for the second year they will have nothing to do with exercising vigilance against liquor, except as it is sold illegally or carried in the bosom of a car driver.

Prohibition agents will be different. They will be out in dress clothes as usual, caring not for Sunday rules, but keeping a keen watch for liquor violations.

The prohibition enforcement units will report for duty tomorrow morning and under Maj. Henry Goodenough, assistant administrator for the district, and Dennis J. Lordan, field agent, will work all through the day and night until quiet descends into the Sunday morning vale.

PLAGUE OF SNOOPS

Then they will report again at midday on Sunday and work through until approximately the dawn of Monday when dine and dance places close and the revelers go home. All days off and time out for the prohibition men has been canceled.

All over town the prohibition agents will be sprinkled, rigged out in their white fronts and gleaming studs—and the party next to you, celebrating perhaps not so strenuously, and of course not dumply, may be prohibition agents.

Everything is ready for the two gala celebrations in theaters, hotels cafes, night clubs and just dance places, with of course many house parties scheduled.

CONCERTS ON COMMON

The city of Boston will hold no official celebration, but at Parkman bandstand on Boston Common, both nights, will have amplifiers pulling through New Year's radio programs.

Many City Hall folk will go to Montreal over the holidays, leaving the South Station tonight, to take part in the winter carnival of James M. Curley, Jr., Court, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters. The mayor may also be with the party.

Additional and later service will be maintained on the surface car and bus routes of the Elevated tomorrow night if is announced.

PROTEST CLOSE OF 3 ARMY POSTS

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Texas and Arizona senators joined today in a vigorous protest against War Department plans to abandon Camps D. A. Russell, Marfa, Tex.; Stephen T. Little, Nogales, Ariz., and Harry J. Jones, Douglas, Ariz.

Sen. Connally (D.) of Texas termed the proposed transfer of the Marfa troops to Camp Knox, Ky., January 1, as "autocratic" and in no sense an economy step.

Connally was joined by Sen. Hayden (D.) of Arizona in contending it was "false" economy to move the troops.

Hayden asserted the "moral effect of mere presence of regular army men in uniform at Douglas and Nogales was the best protection we can have from possible dangers across the border."

Philippine Report Causes Little Stir

Manila, P. I., Dec. 30—News that Congress had adopted the conference report on the measure for Philippine independence caused little enthusiasm here. The news came on the morning of the Rizal Day holiday.

Col. Green's Big 'Lightning Maker' Being Installed

The 10,000,000-volt "lightning generator" designed by Dr. Robert J. Van de Graaf of Massachusetts Institute of Technology was being installed today in the airship dock at Round Hill, the South Dartmouth estate of Col. E. H. R. Green.

The plan of building this apparatus, which is expected to revolutionize electrical engineering, was revealed several months ago, but at that time only a model had been made.

The huge generator is scheduled to be tested next spring. The intervening months will be devoted to getting everything in readiness for a demonstration on which scientists rest their hopes of solving many age-old problems.

MAY SMASH ATOMS

The generator is expected to produce a steady flow of current at a potential of approximately 10,000,000 volts and some scientists claim it will create a means of smashing all kinds of atoms and therein reading the future of the universe.

Transmutation of metals, another dream of the scientists, may also be within the powers of this apparatus.

The tremendous power which is to be generated is produced primarily by means of two endless silk belts operating inside of two columns, each six feet in diameter and 25 feet high.

This power in the form of positive and negative electrical charges is carried to two spheres at the top of the columns, each sphere is 15 feet in diameter and weighs a ton and a half.

IT'S A SAFE PLACE

When the power stored up in these spheres, one of which is a negative and the other a positive electrode, reaches a specific potential, it discharges between the spheres like a flash of lightning. Tubes will connect the spheres.

When the generator is in operation the safest place in the vicinity will be the interiors of the spheres.

Massachusetts Couple -:- Victims of Crazed Soldier's Bullets -:- And Their Orphans

MRS. DAVID A. PALMER

Story on Page 8

POLLY

DAVID, JR.

Two graduates of Boston University and former Massachusetts residents, Capt. and Mrs. David A. Palmer, today fell victims to a crazed Negro soldier at Ft. Huachua, Ariz. The killer burst into their quarters after having slain another officer and his wife. When he opened fire, David, Jr., 12, rushed his sister, Polly, 10, into a clothes closet, where they hid until the maniac left. Then the boy spread the alarm and the killer was shot down by a guard. These pictures were taken 3 years ago when the Palmers were stationed at Omaha.

W. C. T. U. HEAD IS ACCUSED OF LOVE PIRACY

Drunk Charge Added in a Court Clash at Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 30 (INS)—As a consequence of a courtroom clash in which she was accused of trying to steal the affections of a fellow prohibition worker, Mrs. Robert H. Brucer today resigned her presidency of the W. C. T. U. County Chapter.

This announcement was made shortly after Mrs. Brucer confronted her accuser, Mrs. Arthur J. Lynch, in Judge Graber's woman's court chambers. The judge withheld service of a warrant, charging disorderly conduct, when Mrs. Brucer signed a $500 peace bond pledging herself to have nothing more to do with Lynch, a publicity man.

Telling of the spirited clash between the two women, Judge Graber revealed that Mrs. Lynch had accused Mrs. Brucer of "getting drunk with my husband in a cabaret."

Mrs. Brucer denied the charge, explaining that she had become acquainted with Lynch when the latter was doing publicity work for a dry organization.

New Mexican Envoy to U. S. Is Rumored

Mexico City, Dec. 30 (AP)—Rumors here today were that Dr. Edward Suarez, former chief Mexican representative at Geneva, will be named ambassador to Washington to succeed Jose Casaurane.

Al Smith, 59 Today, Says Nix on Things Like Technocracy

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith, "Happy Warrior" of many campaigns, donned his famous brown derby today, not for a battle, but for a birthday.

Entering his office high above the sidewalks of New York, from which he rose to be four-times governor and a presidential candidate, he hung the "iron hat" on a peg and sat down to cast a reminiscent eye back over his 59 years.

"No, I can't pick out the highlights," he said. "There are too many."

Questions started flying and he raised a hand.

"Now, wait a minute," he said. "I'm declaring a moratorium on all serious discussions. This is my birthday. Christmas trees are still up and the children are playing with their toys. . . refuse to talk about—what's that? Technocracy?

Al Smith

"Say, I've written an article on that and you can read it next month, but it's too deep to talk about on birthdays."

How does he feel at 59?

"At 59," said the famous Democrat, "I feel just as I did at 40. I can see no difference. Why, I didn't really start work until a few years ago."

Then, glancing down on the lower East Side tenement district in which he was born, he said:

"No, I guess I wouldn't change any of it. It has been a great life—a full life."

New York Budget Cut

New York, Dec. 30—New York city cut the pay of all employes earning more than $2000 by sums that ranged from 6 to as high as 33.9 per cent, slashing $18,000,000 from the 1933 municipal budget.

Unconscious 3 Months, Boy Clings to Life

Ravenna, O., Dec. 30 (INS)—Unconscious since Sept. 26, eight-year-old Rex Edward Rhodes is waging a valiant fight against death.

The boy, suffering from a fractured skull which he received when he was struck by an automobile, is under constant attention in Robinson Memorial Hospital.

Dr. J. S. Deyell, his attending physician, said there was no hope for the boy's ultimate recovery. He explained that the cerebrum had been disconnected with the nerve centers by the impact of the crash.

6 GET LIFE FOR BLACK KILLING

Providence, R. I., Dec. 30 (INS)—Six men, all Negroes, were sentenced to life imprisonment today in superior court for first degree murder of Arthur "Daddy" Black, lottery pool operator.

They are Weston Quals, Edward Sutton and Eward Gray of Newport; Webster Barnwell, Fred Harris Bowe, of New York, and William Shepard, of Providence.

They were charged with having gone to the home of Black on the night of Sept. 24 with the intention of burglarizing the place.

Voodoo Blamed for Army Post Slaying of Boston Pair

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Dec. 30—The ancient Voodoo religion of the African jungle played a role in the murder of two United States army officers and their wives, it was revealed today by comrades of the crazed Negro slayer.

The slayer believed he was the reincarnation of Esteveanico, the Negro conqueror of the southwestern Indian tribes in the 16th century, and was called by his Ethiopian gods to reclaim the country, his friends asserted.

Capt. David A. Palmer, a native of Orleans, Mass., and his wife, the former Mary L. Lowden, of Dedham, were shot to death as their two children, David, 12, and Polly 10, hid in a closet. The others killed were Capt. and Mrs. Joseph R. Wesseley, of Texas. The Negro, James H. Abernathy, of Texas, was shot and killed by a colored guard as he fired at a lieutenant, wounding him, after the four murders.

The death of Capt. Palmer and his wife was a terrific shock to their many friends here. During the World War, in which he held the rank of major, he was stationed at Camp Devens, Ayer, and was at one time in charge of the depot brigade.

He was graduated from Somerville High School and from Boston University in 1913. He was born in Orleans 42 years ago. His parents now live in Gardner st., Roxbury. He is also survived by two brothers, Harold C. Palmer of Huntington ave., Back Bay, and Rev. Walter I. Palmer of Lancaster, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. Henry Lyons of Floral Park, N. Y.

Mrs. Palmer was also graduated from Boston University in 191-. They were married in 1917. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lowden, of Spruce st., Dedham, and two sisters, Miss Rose Lowden of Dedham, and Miss Helen Lowden of Pittsburgh.

Members of the family were today making arrangements to have their bodies brought to Dedham for burial.

COUNCIL WEIGHS DOWE'S CASE

Lawrence, Dec. 30—The City Council today took under advisement until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning Mayor White's recommendation that Robert M. Dowe be removed as soldiers' relief commissioner.

Although no definite attitudes were expressed by the four members at today's meeting, the belief was general that the Council would not remove Dowe.

Inspector Marsh of the state relief commissioner's office told the Council Lawrence had an unusually large number of relief complaints, but ex-Mayor John P. Kane, appearing for the United Veterans' Association, said complaints went with the office and expressed the hope it could be removed from politics.

Respite Is Granted in Ginger Case

Removal of Max Reisman of Mattapan to Kansas, to answer to a charge of shipping sub-standard Jamaica ginger in violation of the prohibition law, was delayed today by the filing of a habeas corpus application by his counsel, John J. Higgins and E. Mark Sullivan.

Judge Lowell in Federal court set Jan. 10 for hearing. Reisman was released in $1500 bail. The attorneys claim U. S. Commissioner Jenney, who ordered Reisman taken to Kansas, erred in finding "probable cause."

Robinson, C. P. Man, Out With Office

Montreal, Dec. 30 (AP) — Announcement was made today that L. R. Robinson, general New England freight agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with offices at Boston, is to retire on pension tomorrow. It was said the position is to be abolished.

R. W. Hobbs, New England freight agent, will have charge of the New England agency.

Girl Gets Probation For Bunker Hill Dash

Frances Gallagher, 16, of Forest pl., Charlestown, first girl to ride over the Bunker Hill loop with a speed demon, was given probation and a suspended sentence to Lancaster school by Judge Sullivan in Charlestown court today. She was found not guilty of larceny of a car, but convicted of using one without authority. William Potter, companion in a dash Wednesday night, was sent to Concord reformatory.

Jobless Painters to Get City Work

Unemployed union painters will be given work on municipal projects during the next four months as a result of an order issued today by Mayor Curley. The mayor was visited by a committee representing painters' unions associated with the Boston Building Trades Council and at their request instructed all municipal department heads to make immediate provision for work of that type to be done this year.

URGE TRANSFER OF 12 ROADS TO HIGHWAY DEPT.

Transfer of jurisdiction from the Metropolitan District Commission to the State Highway Department of 12 major boulevards is recommended by the Joint Special Committee on public expenditures to the legislature.

Under a temporary arrangement which expires a year from next April these boulevards are all being supported out of the highway fund (receipts as a result of the one cent increase in the gasoline tax authorized in 1931.

The committee's idea is to make the present arrangement, as to upkeep, permanent and give the highway department complete control over these through ways.

If enacted, the bill will mean large savings in the future for Boston which ordinarily pays the major part of the Metropolitan parks system costs.

Ten of the boulevards which are recommended to be taken over by the highway department are:

Fellsway and Fellsway East, in Medford, Malden, Melrose and Stoneham, from Mystic ave, Somerville to Lynn Fells Parkway, Melrose.

Mystic Valley parkway, Cambridge, from Massachusetts ave, to Belmont and Brattle sts.

Nahant rd., Nahant, from Lynn line to Castle rd.

POKER PLAYER BEATS WIFE, IS DIVORCED

Joseph Wexler wasn't one of those poker players who tear up the cards in anger when he loses; he used to go home and beat his wife, it was claimed in Suffolk divorce court today by Mrs. Annette Wexler of Waverly ave., Winthrop. An uncontested divorce was granted Mrs. Wexler by Judge Joseph R. McCook, and she was given $10 a week alimony.

Three other uncontested divorces were granted, among them one to Edward L. Mansfield of Lake st., Brighton, who dabbled in a summer romance only to discover that they don't take. His bride left him after a day. He was married in Newport, N. H., in August, 1928, to Mrs. Nancy Mansfield, and she jumped off the train when it arrived in Boston on the start of their honeymoon—and hurried to her own home.

Mrs. Ruth J. Scott Yee of West Concord st., South End, while wife of a Chinese, had a different complaint in wining a divorce from William Yee, whom she married in Newark, N. J., in July 1931. Mrs. Yee was also on vacation, she said, and when Yee declared he owned a string of Chinese restaurants with plenty to eat, of course, the former Ruth Scott was won over. She discovered, however, she claimed, that Yee's string of restaurants existed only in dreams and that he was broke.

Mrs. Eva Theresa Lopez of Paris st., East Boston, who won the fourth divorce, testified that she was only 14 when she married Thomas Lopez, then 35, in July, 1927.

He brought two children by a former marriage and they had one out of the new, but he compelled her to support herself and three children on $1 a day, she said—and then beta her when the dollar refused to do the work. She was given custody of her own child.

Sister Aimee Is in Critical Condition

Los Angeles, Dec. 30 (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, was reported by her husband, David L. Hutton, as being in a critical condition today.

Hutton said she has suffered repeated collapses during the past two weeks and is unable to leave her bed. A nervous disorder, together with stomach trouble, was said to be the cause of the evangelist's most recent breakdown.

Racket Secrets of Crime Inc. Bared by Chicago Raids

Chicago, Dec. 30 (INS)—New business secrets of "Crime, Inc." were in the hands of police today, following raids on two more downtown offices of the absentee Al Capone's organization.

Two men and a sheaf of tell-tale documents were seized in the raids, which marked renewal of Mayor Anton J. Cermak's campaign to crush organized gangs.

Two prisoners are Sylvester Agoglia of New York, and Mike Costello of Chicago. Authorities were checking reports that Agoglia is wanted for three murders in Eastern cities. Costello is reputed to have amassed $1,000,000 selling sugar to the Capone breweries for the manufacture of alcohol.

MILLER LEADS RAIDERS

The raids were made by a squad of detectives led by Sergt. Harry Miller, who recently participated in that of another downtown office where Frank "The Enforcer" Nitti, "business brains" of the imprisoned Capone's gang, was seriously wounded in a gun duel.

As in the Nitti raid, the offices visited by Miller and his men were disguised as flour-selling concerns. Crawling through the windows, the detectives first broke into the office, where Costello and Agoglia were found "in conference."

Then Miller led the way to another office, described as headquarters of the Capone syndicate branch, whose affairs are conducted by Lawrence "Dago" Mangano. This office appeared to have been abandoned by the "directors" of "Crime, Inc.," but many of the "company's" business records were found there.

ADVERTISING RACKET

Perusal of these revealed the syndicate has extended its activities into a new sphere, selling advertising space in programs for charity dances which were never held. Notations showed the gang reaped handsome rewards from this racket. Many of the town's politicians and merchants, police said, were listed as purchasers of advertising space.

The raided offices, the records revealed, were headquarters also for the syndicate's endeavors in the fields of handbook betting and taxi dance halls. Each day's receipts in handbook establishments and dance halls, operated or controlled by the gang, were listed in the books.

EXCRIME PROBER SHOT

George "Chief" Redston, 31, former undercover investigator for the "Secret Six," was shot and wounded early today by three men who he said, accused him of being responsible for a raid upon a handbook.

Redston, who was discharged by the crime-fighting body because, it was said, his information was not reliable, identified two of his assailants as William Miller, a Detroit racketeer, and an acquaintance known as Richards.

Decimal Beer 'Poison,' Too

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

With the old year kicking in the grease we look forward to 1933.

France will pay us all the gold it can stack on Chevalier's lower lip.

We'll get beer. But we will get decimal poisoning with it.

The school teachers will be promised their last year's pay next year.

New York hotels will nail their windows down. When a guest wants to leave a room he will have to use the door.

Because of his rheumatism Cal Coolidge will continue to do his trout fishing in a cornfield.

A special session of Congress will give us everything we voted for except what we want.

And we will be much happier than we were in 1932 because we will be used to it.

CITY LEADERS ATTEND RITES FOR MURPHY

Representatives of Boston's civic, business and professional life were among the throng that filled St. Cecilia's Church, Belvidere st., at the funeral of John R. Murphy today.

Murphy, who was a former fire commissioner and for nearly 40 years identified with Boston politics, died on Tuesday after a brief illness.

A solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. William J. Carty, assisted by the Rev. Thomas F. Garrity, deacon, and the Rev. Louis J. Cunney, sub-deacon.

Burial was in Old Calvary cemetery, Mattapan.

MAYOR CURLEY PRESENT

There were no pallbearers, and in keeping with the wishes of Mrs. Murphy, who with three daughters survives her husband, the funeral was as simple as possible.

Dr. James W. Devine, a lifelong friend, and Charles E. Flynn, law associate of Murphy, acted as ushers.

Among the distinguished persons present were Mayor James M. Curley, who defeated Murphy for mayor in 1921; former Mayors John F. Fitzgerald and Malcomb E. Nichols; Police Comm. Eugene C. Hultman, Fire Comm. Edward F. McLaughlin and Street Comm. Theodore A. Glynn.

BANK REPRESENTED

Delegations from the Union Savings Bank, of which Murphy was a trustee and a delegation of the Charitable Irish Society, of which he was long a member, were present.

Thomas W. Manning, president of the Union Savings Bank; Edward Dunton, vice-president; Robert E. John J. Sullivan, John M. Cunningham and Edward J. O'Neill represented the bank.

Other prominent persons who attended are, Bernard J. Rothwell, chairman of the board, Boston Elevated; Arthur W. Sullivan, register of Suffolk Probate; W. T. A. Fitzgerald, registrar of deeds; James H. Brennan, former governor's councilor; Clement A. Norton, Boston city councilor; Robert E. Cornell and Judge John Sheehan of the Boston Finance Commission, Fire Chief Henry A. Fox.

MISS O'REILLY ATTENDS

Also District Fire Chief S. J. Pope, Daniel T. Callahan, Joseph F. McCarthy, messenger of the supreme court; Frank Tirrell, and John J. Keenan of the Charitable Irish Society.

In the family group were Mrs. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gravin, Capt. and Mrs. Ronan C. Grady, Walter and Henry Glavin of New York, and Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly.

Henry E. Hagen, former president of the Boston City Council, also attended.

Within the chancel rail were the Rev. William Connolly of Mattapan, and the Rev. Frank Phelan of Somerville.

Chinese Reds Burn Catholic Mission

Hankow, China, Dec. 30 (AP)—Communist bandits, under the leadership of the notorious Ho Lung, looted the town of Patung on the southern bank of the Yangtse river in western Hupeh.

The Catholic mission was destroyed but the fate of the missionaries could not be learned immediately.

BLAINE DRAFTS NEW BEER BILL

Washington, Dec. 30 (INS)—A substitute for the House beer bill was drafted today by Senator Blaine (R.) of Wisconsin, chairman of a judiciary sub-committee on repeal and modification proposals.

The substitute merely changed the language without changing the alcoholic content of 2.75 per cent by weight or the revenue features of the House measure.

"I have finished this draft so it will be ready in case it is needed when the full committee meets next Monday," Blaine explained.

"It has not yet been approved by the sub-committee."

Blaine declared the committee might decide Monday to report the House bill without amendments. In that event, he pointed out, the Senate could take up beer legislation when it reconvenes Tuesday.

PACIFISTS BOLT ANTI-WAR BODY

Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)—Political rocks brought dissension to the Student Congress Against War today as it ended three days' work.

Six hours of wrangling caused 25 Socialists and a dozen pacifists to no political profession to bolt the congress at midnight.

The dissension led by Monico Swabland of Syracuse University and Myra Shop of the New York City Teachers' Institute, did not return until the majority of the 670 delegates had completed their condemnation of Socialist leaders for supporting war movements in 1914.

Among most national organizations for the League for Industrial Democracy and the Socialist party and party-men who withdrew from the Intercollegiate Student Society of the league branding the refer-ence as a "Trotskyite" step out for.

The Socialists fought unsuccessfully to have the Congress go on record as opposed to class wars. However, resolutions opposed only imperialistic wars.

DOG BARK ROUTS BACK BAY THIEF

A valuable Pekingese dog proved his worth early today when he routed a Back Bay prowler from one of two homes visited in that section during the night.

The dog aroused its owner, Thomas A. Robertson, in time for his wife and Mrs. Robertson to see the prowler flee from their apartment at 256 Beacon st.

The burglar scaled a six-foot fence and escaped through Back st. before the arrival of two sergeants and 14 patrolmen from the Back Bay station.

Less than an hour later, an intruder entered an outdoor sleeping porch at 164 Beacon st., where Mrs. Ida Christenberry, 32, was asleep. The head of the burglar aroused Mrs. Christenberry and her screams soon routed him.

DRAMATISTS BESIEGED AT ALL TIMES

Ambitious Actors Even Invade Home of Elmer Rice, Author of "Counsellor of Law"

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

To the casual observer, or, as you might term him, the occasional frequenter in the temples of drama, an author is simply one of those more or less unidentified personages whose name happens to be mentioned in the playbill. The successful dramatist, however, bears a heavy burden long after some susceptible producer has accepted his wares and seems willing to spend money on it. Perhaps better than any other of our latter day composers for the spoken stage has Elmer Rice suffered the pangs of successful authorship. Writing a play is one thing. That, you could say, is only a matter of a little midnight oil, gas, or electricity. But the escape from aspiring young actresses, seeking profitable employment, calls for strategic and not literary skill.

* * *

As the author of "Street Scene" and "Counsellor at Law," Mr. Rice has met the ladies and frankly confesses his own confusion and his total rout. He mentions, with complimentary spirit, the poet who wrote his piece about iron walls "do not a prison make" and adds that the gentleman must have been thinking of actors looking for jobs.

Elmer Rice.

Mr. Rice concedes the full right of the unemployed to any reasonable resource to reach the "head man." As the curtain director of "Street Scene" and still later for "Counsellor at Law" he discovered that locked doors and forbidding signs have no meaning with ambitious thespians. He recalls one girl refusing to be rebuffed at the office and at the theater, who ferreted out his home address and by arts unknown, managed to wiggle past doormen, bellboys and housemaids. She was not given a part, but Mr. Rice gallantly offered to write for her a first class recommendation as a detective agency. And as it appears, even successful authors enjoy passing annoyances.

* * *

LOOKING BACKWARD—The little Repo Theatre on Washington st. is celebrating its 50th anniversary. This was the first of the B. F. Keith theatres in Boston, or in the nation, and was also the first playhouse in the world to adopt a system of incandescent lighting. Thomas A. Edison, a friend of the late B. F. Keith, came to Boston to personally supervise the installation.

* * *

Al Woods' Plan

There is something to think about in the proposal of A. H. (Al) Woods to bring back to the theater the spicy and rich old melodrama of yesterday. Only my own faith in Al Woods' judgment as a showman lends any conviction to the project. This man, whose rise to theatrical prominence started with the wholesale production of the 10-20-30 cent thrillers, is now bold enough to declare that redhot melodrama at a dollar for the top price will pay handsome profits, if anyone knows, it is Al Woods. He proposes big shows of 13 to 20 scenes, written by dramatists of reputation and played by actors who will work at low salaries. He already has in mind his initial splurge, a play by Samuel Shipman called "18,000 Strong." The story concerns the New York police department. Like many others among the bold producers of better days, Mr. Woods has been in something of an eclipse, but there are still a few veterans left who will remember his exploits with "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" and "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model" of a generation ago. He was a genuine captain of passionate entertainment in those days.

RATTLING THE SKELETON—Boyce Peyser, who comes to the Plymouth in another ten days with "There's Always Juliet," is a son of the famous bandmaster, Arthur Peyser. The son's first role on the speaking stage was in "The Royal Family," in which he was intrusted with a single line. Beating his speechless, who scanned for a stage career, Boyce pedaled around town with "Work" and "Pay" signs in electric lights and then the bug will blow out.

* * *

"Melody" Coming

There will be music of character and entertainment in the George White number at the Boston Opera House on Monday, January 9, when Mr. White's "Melody" will move into the super Huntington avenue temple of opera for a visit, the length of which will be determined by the usual box office check-off. "Melody" is well recommended. It boasts a Sigmund Romberg score, it flaunts a book by Edwin Childs Carpenter and possesses lyrics from the pen of Irving Caesar. These are good, familiar names in musical drama. The cast, too, is not without its appeal, for it includes Evelyn Herbert, Everett Marshall, Walter Woolf, Jean Aubert, Hal Skelly and George Houston.

Tremont Bill

"Sherlock Holmes" with Clive Brooks and "Rain" with Joan Crawford are features on the new program at the Tremont tomorrow. Short features with emphasis on the humorous twist will be included. Clive Brooks turns in one of the best of many character portrayals in "Sherlock Holmes," while Joan Crawford's work in "Rain," supported by Walter Huston, added new laurels to her crown.

On Sunday Tremont patrons will be able to watch a broadcast over the radio. At the opening hour on Sunday the Philharmonic Choir, under the direction of Ray Harlow, will broadcast from the stage.

At 9 o'clock Sunday evening Eliot Joffee and his orchestra will broadcast a half hour of music from the stage.

New Year Will Be Welcomed

"Strange Interlude" will be featured on the screen at both Loew's State and Orpheum on New Year's Eve and New Year's Day. Special performances will run continuously at both Loew houses until midnight on Saturday. A complete show starts at both theaters at the stroke of midnight on Sunday.

A special New Year's show will be given Sunday night at midnight at the Old Howard, the Oriental Burlesquers and the Golden Maidens, presenting "From Broadway to Harlem," will be the double feature bill.

The Bowdoin midnight show gets underway at 11.30 p. m., Sunday, featuring the Harlem Maniacs, a company of 20 Negro entertainers from Harlem. The feature photoplays are "Rain" and "The Sport Parade."

French Film and Dancers at Fine Arts

As a special screening, the Fine Arts box arranged a midnight showing of the latest French film, "Le Bal," only next Monday. In addition to the film there will be a dance prologue by Otto Ashermann and Nina Dole of the Hoyo-Moya Dancers. The Group A music score especially composed by Mr. Hermann was written for the picture.

Otto Ashermann

"Le Bal," Heymann occupies a unique position in the movie world as a composer for movies only.

Association Buys Out Shubert for Premiere

The Jewish Anti-T. B. Association has bought out the Shubert for the evening of Jan. 10, when, on the second night of its appearance in Boston, "Counsellor-at-Law" will be presented, with Paul Muni in the leading role. Tickets may be had by applying promptly to the chairman, Mrs. Julius Levine, 73 Verndale st., Brookline.

Rita Carlin, a fascinating lass who tiptoes through the tulips and elsewhere, being a dancer of ability, featured in the vaudeville revue at RKO Boston.

Vaudeville

Barney Rapp and his New Englanders are headliners at Keith's tomorrow. Claire Lewis, Kay Picture and Shine Moore are included in this act. Other features on the bill are Sheila Barrett, Josephine Harmon with Connie Claxton in a lyric comedy, "Hollywood"; Georges Campo, pantomimist; assisted by Elsie Ray, and Garner-Wolf and Hakins.

Vaude Revue

The new vaudeville revue at the RKO Boston has six acts, and features Boston's Queen of the Air, Dorothy Robbins; and Russell Marconi and Jerry. The revue is titled "In Venice." Stan Meyers and his "Bostonians" have a new band offering.

Players to Be Guests

of the Cushman Club

Eduardo Ciannelli and Frederic Worlock, who impersonate Luigi Pirandello and George Bernard Shaw in "The Last Judgment," now at the Hollis, will be guests of honor at a tea-dance being given for the cast of that play by the Charlotte Cushman Club next Tuesday. The players from The Land of Smiles have been invited to meet the members of "The Last Judgment" company, Mrs. Malcom B. French and Mrs. William M. Wheeler, with others of the executive board of the club, will receive the guests.

Screen Star

Blanche Sweet, who has been called the "sweetest star of the screen," appears in person today on the Scollay stage in a musical revue, "Sweet and Lovely." Featured in the revue with her are Claude and Clarence Stroud, Chamberlin and Hines, former Ziegfeld comedians; Lee Lorraine, called "The Dancing Boulevardier"; Al Rinker, one of the original Paul Whiteman Rhythm Boys, and a gymnastic exhibition by The Cachalots.

"Lawyer Man" Another Hit for Warners

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

William Powell and Joan Blondell make a movie combination that is, as Shakespeare phrases it, devoutly to be wished. These two enable those successful Warner lads to smack off another hit in "Lawyer Man"; up to date their homers have been almost as frequent as Babe Ruth in diamond time.

"Lawyer Man," topping the current bill at the Paramount and Fenway, through the acting of the stars, is made a stirring comedy, with abundant laughs. Its highlight is the laugh it turns on the racket films; much of the way it is keenly satirical in its pokes fun at the crooks with their gun-toting hirelings. William Dieterle's direction is snappy in the handling of the odds and ends pushed into the plot. Flaws abound, liberties are taken with legal and court procedure, but Powell and Miss Blondell push them into the background, and make the narrative seem quite smooth and believable.

Powell is a poor attorney who rises to come to grief when he bangs against the political stone wall. At the same time he is the ladies' man he has so often been in pictures; falls for almost any femme, with the faithful Joan standing by always. He turns crook to beat the crooks, and winds up honest.

There are good dramatic passages; and the dialogue is made to sparkle by the way Powell and Miss Blondell speak the lines.

The companion film is "Handle With Care," with Jimmie Dunn and Boots Mallory, with El Brendel in attendance for humor's sake. The picture seems pale beside the Powell-Blondell combination.

Challenging

Joan Crawford, who has the joys and sorrows of life in "Rain," featured on the Tremont program.

Music Merges Into Movie at Met

By HARRIS MORGAN

Music will merge into movie at the Metropolitan this week. Hy Fine, long Publix music supervisor and recently promoted to be production manager at the Met, departs from precedent in his programming currently.

Fine has prepared three distinct episodes which blend into one another, the last one blending in turn directly into the picture. The stage show will thus have three episodes, as follows: the ballet "The Spirit of the Waltz," "A Cocktail Party of Jazz Mad Youth"; and "Esprit de Militaire," this leading directly into the picture itself. In the talent for the stage show are included the Radio Rogues; Bobby Bixler and partner; Jacque, Irene and Allen; Miriam Lax, William Royal and the Manhattan Steppers. The photoplay is "A Farewell to Arms," starring Helen Hayes.

Will Rogers Passes Up Chance to Amuse Convention to Work on His New Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Dec. 30—Will Rogers had a chance to make a lot of money for himself. The Life Underwriters Association of the West are having a big pow-wow in Denver and they invited the gum-chewing comedian to be their guest of honor at a nice little salary with airplane expenses paid, too. Will was keen to go but he is needed right on the home lot. He is getting ready to begin work on "Arizona to Broadway," an original by William Conselman. This story may be something like Rogers' own life from cowboy to star in the Ziegfeld "Follies." Will has never played the role of a cowboy on the screen, and why not. He could do his famous rope-throwing act at the same time and kill two birds with one stone.

Call for Mary

The very first picture Mary Brian made was for Herbert Brenon. She played "Wendy" in "Peter Pan." She won her contract with Paramount on the strength of this picture and she has always had a warm spot in her heart for Brenon, and he has always liked Mary. He telephoned to ask her if she would play the feminine lead in "Oliver Twist" and she accepted. I am wondering what part she will play. She certainly won't play Nancy Sykes. Brenon has tried to borrow Jackie Cooper but Louis B. Mayer would rather part with his favorite autographed photograph of President Hoover than let Jackie leave the M-G-M studios unless, of course, it was something very special.

Joe E.'s Charity

I'll tell you who does a lot of good in his way. Joe E. Brown, who makes more public appearances than any actor in Hollywood, doesn't do it just because he likes the roar of the crowds. I happen to know that he gave up his engagements the day after Christmas to make a personal appearance at the home for delinquent boys. He entertained these youngsters, told them stories and gave them a happy Christmas. Most of the stars will give money and send their secretaries to deliver it but Joe E. gives himself. He hurried back from Florida when Mrs. Brown was rushed to the hospital. Their baby was born prematurely and did not live. They are planning now to adopt another one, although Mary Elizabeth is only two years old. Patricia Ellis plays opposite Joe E. in his next picture, "Elmer, the Great," and Mervyn Le Roy will direct him.

Soon to Be Missus

Joan Blondell, so widely publicized as Mrs. George Barnes, wife of the cameraman, was not married last summer when the reports were published. George had not then obtained his final divorce decree, but they will be married, and soon. Mr. Barnes and Miss Blondell are both working at the Fox studio on the same picture, Joan as the leading lady and George as her cameraman. As soon as this is finished Joan will become Mrs. Barnes. His divorce became final about a week ago and for the first time he is free to marry.

Chatter in Hollywood

The phone bills of Ann Harding to New York the last few months have ranged from $200 to $500 a month. The calls were to Harry Bannister, who chatted with his little daughter and with his ex-wife. There is a feeling among the friends of Miss Harding and her one-time husband that a reconciliation will take place early in the new year. Certainly marriage would be cheaper than these big telephone bills and there is little doubt that each has a warm spot in the heart for the other. Maybe the separation of nearly a year has ironed out any bad feeling. At any rate, friends of both look to see a big reconciliation scene staged after the New Year.

New One for Oakie

The irrepressible Jack Oakie and irrepressible is just what I mean, for when was Jack ever subdued for five minutes—not he the leading man in "From Hell to Heaven." Jack draws none other than the beauteous Carole Lombard as his leading lady and that is a break for him. Eric C. Kenton directs and heaven help me, I hope that title sticks. "Good Thing" and "Eleven Lives" were the former names. I am getting round shouldered trying to keep these titles straight. Wasn't it Shakespeare who said, "A Rose by Any Other Name——" But why go Shakespeare during the holidays?

Snapshots of Hollywood

VIRGINIA CHERRILL and CARY GRANT are romancing. RALPH GRAVES spent the evening at the Frolics, dancing with a tall, stately blonde. JACK WHITE also at the Frolics with one of the GALE sisters of Ziegfeld "Follies" fame. JOHN FARROW representing the Rumanian government in some capacity or other, stocking up on Rumanian wiands at the Gotham. JIMMY DUNN at the Club New Yorker with MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN. All seems well again between them. POLLY MORAN at the Club New Yorker, giving the guests many laughs as the paid entertainers. MARLENE DIETRICH in the inevitable trousers, pale blue if you must know, at the Vine Street Derby with her daughter and her good-looking husband. JACK WARNER, DARRYL ZANUCK and HAL WALLIS combining business and lunch at the Derby. DOROTHY JORDAN with an attentive dinner companion, unknown to this column. SPENCER TRACY en route to New York via the canal. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Globe Trotter

John D. Rockefeller, the 93-year-old oil king and philanthropist, is pictured playing his first game of golf this season on his estate at Ormond Beach, Fla., in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, now at Loew's Orpheum. Evidently believing that it is never too late to learn, Mr. Rockefeller is seen taking a lesson in driving and putting from Miss Virginia Van Wie, national women's golf champion. He's a little out of practice and intently follows Miss Van Wie's playing. Then he drives and putts in such perfect form as to bring forth congratulations from the girl champion.

Tragic scenes attending the explosion in the coal mine at Mowenkqua, Ill., in which 94 miners are believed to have lost their lives, are shown. Hundreds of friends and relatives are gathered about the entrance of the mine watching the efforts of the rescue party as they enter time after time in the hope of bringing forth living men. But always they return with bodies of the dead. The Globe Trotter describes the tragedy.

MAN HUNTED IN WIFE SHOOTING

Brockton, Dec. 30—Several police cars are making a wide search today for Martin Whalen, 37, sought on a charge of attempting to murder his wife.

Miss Elizabeth McKeever, sister of Mrs. Whalen, reported to police that she saw Whalen and a companion in a store today at West Elm st. and Warren ave. When police arrived the men had gone.

The wife, Clara, 29, who is in a critical condition at second Hospital with two bullets in her abdomen, told police that her husband fired at her during an argument after she returned from a three days' stay with her parents.

The Whalens lived at 89 Wheeler ave. Mrs. Whalen had gone to her parents following an argument with her husband over the amount of time she was devoting to church affairs.

Arriving home last night she found her husband lying on the bed, reading. She complained to him because he had not kept the house tidy during her absence. He reached under a pillow, drew forth a revolver and fired, she said.

Whalen was wearing a coat and trousers over his pajamas when he fled in the auto, which is registered in his wife's name. The car was found by Inspectors Lyons and Casey.

Quarrel Victim

Mrs. Clara Whalen of Brockton, seriously wounded, police charge, by her husband when she reproached him for the untidiness of their home when she returned from a three-day visit to her folks. The husband, Martin Whalen, fled and is being hunted.

Postoffice Thief's Sentence Suspended

John D. Martin, Jr., of Fairhaven, for 12 years postal employe at Fairhaven, was before Judge James A. Lowell today, admitted stealing letters and was given a year's suspended sentence and put on probation two years. He is to make restitution.

Rev. Gamble Dies

OCEAN GIVES UP HUGE BONE

The dragger Jackson Arthur, commanded by Capt. John Frica, arrived at the fish pier today with an enormous bone, brought up while the vessel was dragging 30 miles east of Boston Light.

The bone is about three feet long, three feet wide and at least a foot thick. It is the consensus of opinion among the old timers around the pier that the bone could not possibly belong to any mammal of the deep and it is believed that it is the remains of some pre-historic animal which roamed the forests of New England hundreds of thousands of years ago when the off-shore fishing banks were above the present sea level.

The bone was turned over to the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology.

JAPS' INVASION ALARMS SOVIET

Berlin, Dec. 30 (INS)—Soviet Russian officials are alarmed over developments in Manchuria and the advance of Japanese troops into Jehol province, China, according to advices today from Moscow.

"We are convinced a big war is coming in the Far East within two years," a high Soviet official was quoted as stating.

It was reported the friendly feeling between Moscow and Japan which became evident several months ago, has been shattered by the circumstances of resumption of relations between China and the Soviet, and that Moscow is now troubled by the refusing of Japan to enter into a non-aggression pact.

According to confidential advices to German circles, Russia is striving to build up an efficient Red air force and strengthen the fortifications at Vladivostok.

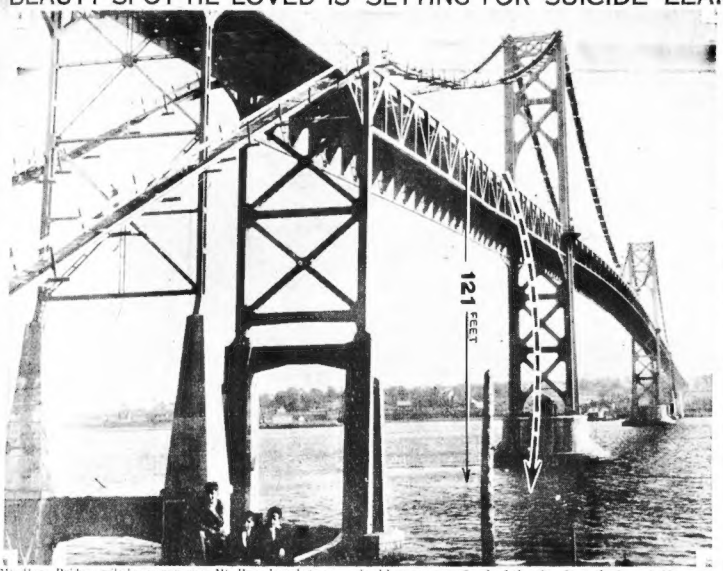
BEAUTY SPOT HE LOVED IS SETTING FOR SUICIDE LEAP



Mt. Hope Bridge, mile-long span over Mt. Hope bay, between Bristol and Portsmouth, R. I., showing how James Ira Shepard of Providence leaped 121 feet to his death today in a puzzling suicide plunge. Shepard, a Brown University and Harvard Law School graduate, and one of the leaders of the Rhode Island bar, was very fond of the view from the huge bridge, one of the State's beauty spots, and chose it to stage his spectacular suicide. A note left in his car parked at one end of the bridge told his wife: "I couldn't face the New Year penalty." No other motive for his act was given. (Boston American photo.)

COLLIER WILL PUSH TAX BILL

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Despite the reported opposition of President-elect Roosevelt to a general sales tax, Chairman Collier said today he would give the House ways and means committee an opportunity to pass on it next Wednesday.

The Mississippi Democrat told newspapermen he was going to give the group that opportunity to consider all proposed taxes, including the manufacturers' excise tax, before it undertakes to formulate legislation designed to balance the budget.

The committee also has bill to be considered, introduced by Representative McLeod (R.), Mich., providing 1 per cent levy on manufactured products, exclusive of foodstuffs and clothing.

Cabaret Celebrates Its Opening Tonight

The new Paramount Cabaret, 25-31 Essex st, will celebrate its grand opening tonight under new management. The management is planning a double New Year's celebration—one on Saturday night and one on Sunday, with an all-star floor show on both occasions. On Sunday there will be dancing from 12 midnight to 4 a. m. Monday, with favors, souvenirs and noise makers for everybody. The Paramount orchestra will play for dancing.

Mayor Lets Tunnel Ventilator Contract

The Foley Construction Co. was the bidder today awarded a contract by Mayor Curley for a new ventilating building for the South end entrance to the new East Boston traffic tunnel. The concrete building, similar to the one on the East Boston side of the tube, at a cost of $3275.23 for the building.

Glory of "Radio City" Rather Dim

Colonnials in the United States are most often connected with sporting events. The parades of rival bands between the halves, the spelling out of the opponent's name in human letters and the reverent singing of the adversary's songs are as gay a mass ceremony as our democracy provides. The inauguration of a President is drabber and longer.

In Europe there is no dearth of good street shows and the news-reel, at least, shows how much we miss. The great military reviews in the Red square before Lenin's Mausoleum, the massed tricolors sweeping up toward the Arc de Triomphe, the goose-stepping of the colors on the king's birthday, are all state occasions which engenderate in the hearts of their respective participants and spectators a sense of power and glory of the nation's survival.

Lincoln Kirstein

It is because we lack suitable events to celebrate that we notice with corresponding acuteness their influence. Or is it because we really assume that a great democracy, a free people are beyond the mean vampires of European politics or republics?

* * *

Nevertheless, there is a universal appeal in a state spectacle, even if it only consists of a marine band playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever," conducting two lined men in an open automobile up Pennsylvania ave., Washington. We have had to our credit the reviews of the Grand Army of the Republic after the Civil War, and of the A. E. F. after the last war. But are military and sporting events the only ones to demand a fitting ritual?

Center Dedicated

When, after considerable time, money and thought accomplished their fragmentary pile of yellowing stones which American archeologists continue to piece together under the illusion that they can restore the glory that was Greece, a number of religious processions dedicated the Parthenon. There were hymns sung, perhaps rarely one in honor of the Virgin Goddess. Gifts were distributed and the populace thrown open to the great Athenian populace to marvel at what Phidias had wrought.

Similarly when the great cathedrals were finished or when a manuscript was done, or a new chapel blessed, the clergy robed in their stiffest vestments, bearing the big crosses and preceded by choir similar would circle the new fabric and knock on the new doors, requesting entrance in the Lord's name.

This week in New York City a building was inaugurated, the first group of buildings which unquestionably cost more each to build than the Parthenon, or Notre Dame de Paris or even the Lincoln Memorial. Its purpose to be sure was not devotional, but its pile, even so, was nonetheless impressive, for that fact. The central building is some 70 stories high, a few hundred feet shorter than the tallest building in the world, but the Empire State has less office space than Rockefeller Center.

For the last two or three years the skyline of New York has been undergoing one of the extraordinary changes. First in the offices of the architects the huge complex of steel and limestone was indicated, debated, determined. The plans were established, and in Pittsburgh and Gary the steel was stamped out, and shipped off in its elaborate traffic schedule, to arrive in just the right order, the heavy members first, then the lighter, and finally the light top beams to be seared with rivets and faced with stone.

* * *

Rockefeller Center, from Fifth ave., is perhaps the most impressive building in New York. It is a great sandwich of planes of ribbon windows, breaking its prow on the air two or three times before it frets out in steel filigree at the tip-top. From the side street it seems a Babylonian wall, sheer surface of infinitely extending windows, diminishing upwards to black belts of glass.

* * *

What It Means

The architecture of Radio City is comparatively simple and free of vulgar adornment. Its plan is ingenious in the extreme and its engineering another miracle of American technical ingenuity which has become in its granted efficiency almost commonplace. There is no stopping the way we can pile steel on steel and clothe it in a membrance of white stone.

The renting plan in relation to the theater facilities is also rich in implications and in spite of the world crisis and the fact that New York is the heaviest over-built city in the world, we may safely assume that due to liberty loan methods Radio City will have a surprisingly large quota of tenants.

* * *

But what will Rockefeller Center mean to most people who live in the Metropolis, to most people who come to visit New York? It will mean two very large and handsome theaters, the International Music Hall and the new Roxy. The former is the largest auditorium in the world. It seats 6200 people easily, with no obstructions to the sight.

* * *

One comes into a foyer three stories high. Gold-plated mirrors extend from carpet to the gold-leaf ceiling, and gold-tissue curtains border the gold glass. One passes by the discreet and military ushers into the theater proper. It is an enormous shell, circular, the ribs overlapping, and the overlap hiding batteries of light, which can flood the huge curving surface with any modulation of desired color. Three shallow mezzanines obviate the balcony overhang. The stage is equipped with three elevator surfaces and a revolving platform. Performers can make their entrance halfway back from the sides of the auditorium. A contour-curtain shapes the proscenium in any given form. The orchestra can emerge, sink and reappear some 80 feet back in the full glare of the lighted stage. And that's not the half of it.

* * *

Rockefeller Center opened this week. With what ceremonials? With what brilliant program? Who of the world's great graced the occasion? To be sure Franklin D. Roosevelt promenaded in the intermission prominently inconspicuous. What happened on the stage? Did the King of Cambodia send his temple dancers? Did Siam transport a regiment of White Elephants? (Only elephants are in the proper scale to fill the Radio proscenium arch.) Did a tribe of Navaiho dance their indigenous offerings of snake and antelope?

* * *

Unfortunately, not as much constructive, imaginative thought went into the initial program as into the other departments of the development. What greeted our not in the least astonished eyes and ears was—a poem of dedication by a lady member of the publicity office—scenes showing Francis Scott Key writing the Star Spangled Banner—a troupe of Japanese jugglers and German aerial eccentrics. There was also 20 minutes of Carmen, including four live horses (in rubber shoes to save the floor) and no bull, a night club scene, two low comedians, two German singers, one male and one female, a pretty ballet of some hundred girls floating in falling snow and Weber and Fields. It was by no means finished at midnight. It was, in fact, a very mediocre vaudeville entertainment on a stupendously pretentious scale. Some of it was not hard to look at, and the acoustics were perfect. But the back seats were so far away from the stage that no features in a face could be seen.

Did people like it? Will it pay? Probably. For a time it will be filled on the strength of its novelty and the elaborate physical equipment with which it is so superbly endowed. But was there one moment of real interest, excitement, surprise, comparable to the beauty of the building? There was not.

There was a rich, heavy, long unimaginative enfilade of well-trained company boring acts, perfectly suitable for a thousand circuit stages, small stages, but lost, insulting and meaningless to the apotheosis of the art of Variety, or more humbly, to the aims of amusement. Conceived in 1929 in 1932 the whole plan seems dangerously grotesque, irrelevant and dead. Maybe new American artists exist unknown now, to be called into being by the great demands here. Let us hope so, for only something as radically different as unguessed talent can save it.

Alliance With Garden Corporation Inevitable

1933, JUST AROUND the bend. What is it going to bring forth in sport? As we look into the crystal ball we can see better times, good times, looming ahead. When this Black Winter is o'er, a new administration and a new Congress consent to look things straight in the face, a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment furnishes the one impetus needed to encourage spending, and launches a buying movement, which will grow like a snowball rolling down hill and increase like widening circles in the water, sport is going to revive like all other business. One thing the New Year almost certainly will witness is the launching of another boxing boom. In all probability, 1933 only will witness the start of the boom. But the upward swing definitely will be on. Behind it, we believe, you will find the magic name of Jack Dempsey.

A Moses Even if His Name Is Jack

Yes, folks, we believe Jack Dempsey will be the Moses who will lead boxing out of the Wilderness. Not in his old role of the Man Killer, but as a promoter. Not as a free lance promoter, as he is at present, but allied with the powerful Madison Square Garden Corporation, with which just now Manassa Jack is couching a lance in a promotorial war. The World's Greatest Sports Combine needs the World's Greatest Master of the Ballyhoo, just as much as the World's Greatest Master of the Ballyhoo needs the World's Greatest Sport's Combine. It is as plain as Jim Durante's schnozola that an eventual get-together and pooling of interests by Dempsey and the Garden Corporation is inevitable. The present war between them and the attendant headaches over the staging of the Sharkey-Carnera and the Schmeling-Baer fights is likely will be the medium which will bring the Master of the Ballyhoo and the Six Hundred Millionaires together. By the time 1934 rolls around, perhaps before, you will see them under the same banner.

Rickard Realized Dempsey's Worth

No one in sport, not even Babe Ruth, can get the headlines like Jack Dempsey. Dempsey is a born showman. He is a born maker of the ballyhoo. Dempsey had just as much to do with the making of Tex Rickard as Rickard did himself. That Rickard realized this is evinced from the fact that before the great promoter's death he formed a secret partnership with Dempsey and was preparing to cut loose from the Madison Square Garden Corporation and to promote under a corporation which would have had himself and Dempsey as twin heads. That we believe would have been a foolish move on Rickard's part. The men and millions behind the Garden Corporation were Rickard's biggest assets and Rickard needed the balance wheel furnished by William F. Carey, Dick Hoyt and the other executives and directors of the big corporation. Death prevented the launching of the Dempsey-Rickard corporation. Without Garden backing it would have failed, just like the Madison Square Garden Corporation will fail to do the boxing business it would do if it had Dempsey as the "Front Man." Dempsey alone will be a promotorial failure. The Garden Corporation without Dempsey heading the ballyhoo will not do half the business it should do. It is a Garden-Dempsey alliance and the pooling of interests that will bring about the big boxing boom. Both need each other to put the real "punch" back into boxing.

Big Purses Hurt Jack's Judgment

Only pig-headedness on Dempsey's part prevented his stepping into Rickard's shoes in Madison Square Garden after Rickard's death. Dempsey had an exaggerated sense of values. That was only natural. It is hard for a fellow who had been accustomed to having millions dropped in his lap to face the task of operating under a yearly salary which, handsome as it was, was "chicken feed" alongside of the fabulous purses Dempsey obtained through his iron fists. Recent lean years undoubtedly have shrunk Dempsey's over-estimation of his promotorial value. Lean years also will make the Madison Square Garden Corporation more amenable to reason. The Fates seem to have been setting the stage for the getting together of Dempsey and the Garden officials. The present promotorial war between them is likely to bring things to a head. You'll have to watch the fistic doings of May and June to see whether the Dempsey-Garden alliance will be consummated by next September or whether it will take another year before the both of 'em consent to listen to reason.

Biggest Plum Will Go to New York

Regarding the Sharkey-Carnera and the Schmeling-Baer matches, both of them will go "big", but probably not as "big" as the promoters look for. The signs along the trail are that the Schmeling-Baer bout will be staged in Chicago, not New York. It will be the first sports feature of Chicago's World's Fair. It would occasion no great surprise if the second and biggest World's Fair sports feature would be a third Sharkey-Schmeling world's championship in September with Dempsey promoting it under Madison Square Garden direction. But there are stronger signs that the big title bout will be held under Milk Fund auspices in New York. The Chicagoans will exert every effort to bring the Sharkey-Schmeling championship to the Boule Mich but the Milk Fund is more likely to save it for Broadway.

Dempsey Helping His Rivals

We have a hunch that the powers that be in the Madison Square Garden combine are welcoming the present little promotorial tiff with Dempsey. It is making talk, arousing interest in boxing in general. Dempsey is getting the headlines, bagging newspaper space, grinding out the publicity and advertising that make the wheels of any business go around. Jack is not only advertising himself and his Schmeling-Baer match but he is advertising boxing, getting the populace steamed up and talking about fisticuffs again. Indirectly the Master of the Ballyhoo is helping out his competitors as much as himself. In other words, Dempsey is launching the Ballyhoo that is going to bring boxing back into its own in 1933 and 1934.

Grid Rules Board Seeks to Make Sport Safer

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Football, faced with a "disconcerting" number of serious and fatal injuries in 1932, for the second straight year must grapple for a solution of the problem of supplying greater safeguards for the boys who play the game, according to the annual report of the National Rules Committee.

Presented today to the convention at the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the report appeals for a suspension of judgment while the rules makers of the game combine with coaches, officials and other college leaders in their continued efforts to make the sport as safe as possible.

DEATHS "DISCONCERT"

Although noting the impossibility in a game involving so much physical contact of eliminating accidents and injuries entirely, or by the modification of the rules alone, the report says:

"The number of serious and fatal injuries which have been reported by the press as occurring during the season of 1932 is disconcerting at the moment. It was expected that the changes in rules which were effected last February would bring about a much lower average. Although there has been a material decrease from last season, the casualty list as reported must be regarded as a problem of serious import.

"From the preliminary in formation at hand it appears that by far the larger percentage of these accidents occurred in high school and sandlot games—in direct ratio to the lack of supervision exercised—and that but three cases resulting fatally occurred in colleges holding membership in this association.

"In the meantime, it is only fair that judgment should be withheld until, after mature and deliberate consideration of the facts, proper solutions may be reached."

32 DEATHS THIS SEASON

The report by Langford was prepared in advance of publication this week of the detailed analysis of 1932 football accidents, showing at least 32 deaths attributable directly or indirectly to the game in the high schools and colleges. This compared with over 40 deaths in 1931.

The report charges, nevertheless, that an analysis of the 1932 accidents, made last winter "showed that the so-called fatality list charged to football was more than 50 per cent misleading and inaccurate and that there were but 21 deaths which could be at all properly chargeable to the game, with three of these doubtful."

Continuing the report says: "It has been estimated that at least 750,000 played the game in 1931 and if this be accurate it means that the mortality rate was less than three one-hundredths of one per cent. It is felt that the arraignment of football on this score has been too severely drawn in some quarters."

Phelan or Dietz May Be H. C. Coach

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Delegates to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual convention gathered for the final session today with the report of the football rules committee, the selection of a new chairman for that body and the election of a new president as the chief items of unfinished business.

New efforts were to be made to fill the vacant football coaching position at Chicago, Holy Cross and Fordham.

Jimmy Phelan of Washington was mentioned in connection with all three jobs. Jimmy Crowley of Michigan State and Charley Bachman, who resigned as coach at Florida, were among those reported being sought by Fordham, where Maj. Frank Cavanaugh has wound up his coaching duties. William (Lone Star) Dietz of the Haskell Indians may succeed Capt. J. J. McEwan at Holy Cross.

Walter R. Okeson of Bethlehem, Pa., was slated for election as chairman of the rules committee, succeeding the late E. K. Hall.

Coaches Pick Troy

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—If the fotoball coaches know their fotoball, Southern California should defeat Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Monday.

Of 14 polled by the World-Telegram all but Earle (Greasy) Neale of West Virginia picked the Trojans to win. Neale thinks the Southern California team reached its peak against Notre Dame and that "the psychology is with Pitt."

Excerpts from the statements of other coaches:

Lou Little, Columbia: "I like Southern California."

Doc Spears, Wisconsin: "The Trojans have everything."

PITT MENTOR PICKS U. S. C.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 30 (AP)—Without a single injured player after seven days of hard practice, Coach Jock Sutherland said today his Pittsburgh Panthers were ready for the game with the University of Southern California Trojans Monday in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal.

"I still say Southern California will lick us, simply because it has a better club," declared Sutherland who admitted he liked the role of being an underdog in the forthcoming struggle."

Sutherland said his team was in prime physical condition.

Ticket Sale Slow for Rose Bowl Game

Los Angeles, Dec. 30 (AP)—Southern California's unbeaten football team moved into the final stage of its Rose Bowl tournament campaign today with bold intentions of meting out disappointment to Pittsburgh Monday.

Coach Howard Jones planned only a casual workout this afternoon as the final important gesture of the game at Pasadena which will mean either the termination of the Trojan winning streak of 19 games or 20 straight triumphs.

Unless the ticket sale picks up rapidly, less than three-fourths of the Rose Bowl's 84,000 seats will be filled.

B. A. A. Celebrates 45th Anniversary

A gathering of nearly 200 celebrated the 45th anniversary of the B. A. A. at a banquet in the Exeter st. clubhouse last night.

Pyle in Sugar Again

If you read about C. C. Pyle dragging a couple of football stars around the country in the near future, or starting another of his bunion derbies, blame it on the movies.

According to Bill O'Brien, manager of Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc., the famous exploiter of athletes, put a big deal across recently, and is in the "sugar" again.

He bought an invention for the better synchronization of voice and picture from a Chicago engineer recently, paying him for the machine with a $3000 note, and then hied himself to the Coast and got $125,000 for the idea. Still a good business man, that C. C.

WEST FORWARD WALL NAMED

San Francisco, Dec. 30 (AP)—Scrimmage for the Eastern forces and a long drill on pass defense for the Western stars were the highlights of the practice programs in the East-West preparations for the annual charity football game here Jan. 2.

At their University of California practice field, the Western gridders went through a long session. It included dummy scrimmage both on offense and defense in addition to an intensive drill against aerial attack.

HARVARD LOSES ONLY $50,000

By RILEY GRANNON

It appears that the writing boys in New York, in quoting Bill Bingham, director of Harvard athletics, on the financial condition of Crimson sports for the year 1932, weren't very clear.

One received the impressions from their Bingham stories that Bill had stated that Harvard athletics would finish the season about a million dollars in the red.

Bingham couldn't be reached in New York today, but what he actually said according to Carroll Getchell, his local mouthpiece, was that despite a big reduction in his 1932 budget of $1,000,000, Harvard still faced a deficit.

Getchell couldn't say just what the deficit would be at this early date. But a guess that Harvard will finish the weary year about $50,000 behind the breaking-even point shouldn't be far from wrong.

Harvard, in keeping with the general trend, is busy about balancing its financial budget. This matter, in face of a drastically impoverished football season, has kept a large staff of Harvard athletic accountants burning the midnight oil for some weeks.

Harvard fell off some $200,000 in football receipts for 1932. This makes it necessary for the Crimson athletic officials to present a new athletic budget to the Harvard Corporation some time next week.

At the same time, a statement published by Bingham some week back indicated that Harvard football alone promised a financial return of some $900,000.

Far from running a million dollars in the red Harvard athletics can never run very far behind financially because of the policy inaugurated and sustained by Director Bingham. Harvard always pays its way athletically, refusing utterly to assume any debt for new athletic plants, equipment or gymnasia.

Tom Armour Fails to Start in Miami Open Golf Grind

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP)—Tommy Armour, the Scotsman of Detroit, was unexpectedly an absentee when a field of better than 160 of the nation's stellar golfers teed off today in search of first place honors in the Miami open golf tournament.

Tournament officials received a telegram from Armour at Asheville, N. C., expressing regret that he would be unable to defend the top honors he won in the 1931 tourney.

Meantime, with a slight northeast breeze whipping the Miami Springs golf course, the rest of the field got away for today's 18 holes.

DENVER GOLFERS LUCKY

Denver, Dec. 30 (INS)—Records as the Denver Country Club disclosed today that Denver has had 304 days of good golfing weather in 1932.

Snow this week closed all courses for the balance of the year. With only 61 days of golfless weather, 1932 was the best year for open courses since 1922. Ten years ago there were only 45 golfless days.

George Mantha Ill; Can Play Sunday

Montreal, Dec. 30 (AP)—George Mantra, left wing of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, today was in a hospital wit hinfluenza, but was expected to leave with the team tomorrow to meet the Chicago Blackhawks Sunday night.

MAXES MAY GO IN MEXICO

Agua Caliente, Mex., Dec. 30 (AP)—James N. Crofton, president of Agua Caliente Co., said Jack Dempsey, former fisticuff king, had undertaken to promote a fight between Max Schmeling and Max Baer here next spring.

Crofton said Dempsey had telegraphed him asking whether arrangements could be made.

A telegram sent to Dempsey in New York by Crofton in reply said: "Let me know what offers you have. Understand you wish to stage the match in June. If you could arrange it for the end of March, we could put it on at the race track and undoubtedly draw tremendous crowd. Best regards and good luck."

Bowlers to Battle

Westport Ct., Dec. 30 (INS)—Crack bowlers from Connecticut are to take part in the sweepstakes here Monday promoted by the Southern Connecticut Bowling Alley Owners' Association.

DETROIT AND BROOKLINE GIRLS IN NET FINAL

MISS PALFREY, MISS GRAWN TO CLASH

By JOE MOONEY

Miss Grawn won her way to the finals in a crushing three-set victory over Louise Harding of Brookline in a semi-final duel today, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

DETROIT GIRL VICTOR

The victory of the Detroit miss over the Brookline finalist of a year ago, Miss Harding, was an upset. The invader suffered from stage fright at first and dropped the first set when the Brookline held service twice. Although Miss Harding took the first set, Miss Grawn found her netting after the seventh game, which was the turning point of the match.

In the second and third sets Miss Grawn drove Miss Harding from one side of the court to the other, scoring repeatedly on baffling placement shots. She had an awkward but effective style, and her skimming shots to the baseline proved too much for Miss Harding.

Joanna Palfrey, youngest of the famous royal family of tennis, turned in an exhibition of brilliant baseline shooting to defeat the slugging Helen Jones in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2.

MISS JONES WINS

Miss Jones appeared to have the upper hand in the first set of this match when she went out in front to lead 4—2 in games. Then Miss Palfrey by adding aces and unreturnable placements, she came from behind to take four straight games and the set.

In the second set Joanna took the first four games in a row, let down to enable Miss Jones to take a couple, and then resumed her fast pace to sweep through the set and the match, 6—2.

BOWS TO JOANNA PALFREY

Helen Jones, Swampscott, above, went among the defeated today in the national girls' title tennis when she bowed to Joanna Palfrey, Brookline, 6—4, 6—2, at the Longwood covered courts. Miss Palfrey plays Helen Grawn, Detroit, in the final tomorrow.

COLLEGIANS IN LAKE PLACID TROPHY HUNT

Lake Placid, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—Two events, a downhill ski race of a mile and another of a half-mile, usher in competition for the Harding trophy, now held by Dartmouth, here today as the 12th annual college week winter sports program enters its third day.

Representatives of 12 colleges—Dartmouth, Yale, Harvard, Williams, New Hampshire, Bowdoin, Maine, St. Lawrence, McGill University, Trinity, Ottawa and St. Patrick's—are entered.

The Bosch trophy, held by Eddie Bland of New Hampshire and symbolic of the best ski jumping in North American collegiate ranks, will be at stake Monday.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

JOE GILMAN and Billy Ames of the Boston Garden made a swell move to aid the unemployed boxers when they announced they would stage "New Talent" shows beginning Jan. 9.

"The plan is quite simple," chirped Gilman in true Dartmouth fashion as he puffed a big cigar in his Garden office. "Any youngster in New England who thinks he can fight and can get a license from the Boxing Commission will receive an opportunity to show for us.

"It isn't necessary for the boxer to have a manager, pull, drag or influence. All we ask is that the mitt wielder be able to toss punches.

"The bouts will be limited to four and five round affairs. We plan to stage as many bouts on each card as possible.

"Interest is lagging in boxing because we lack local cards. There are only five or six New England boxers who are worth a dime at the box office. Ten years ago conditions were different. There were then plenty of first class local ring stars. This was due to the fact our New England boxers had plenty of opportunities to show their stuff at the small clubs throughout New England.

"Most of the small clubs have folded up, while there are only two clubs operating in Boston. Under these conditions, no new boxers have been developed. Hundreds of youngsters with a desire to get into the pro game have been unable to get matches. And so they have given up all idea of becoming boxers.

"The Garden is now open to these boys. If they can make good, they can step into the spots left vacant by our former ring stars."

Mr. Boston

Slash Prices at Garden

THE "NEW TALENT" shows will be offered at bargain prices. Gilman says other than the floor seats every seat in the Garden will be sold for 25 and 50 cents. The floor seats will go for $1.

There are 17,500 seats in the Garden, which will make it possible for the club to make a profit if it draws large crowds.

The Return of Hogan

I AM GLAD to hear Frank Hogan is coming back to the Bruins. I have been interested in the career of Hogan since he was a pitcher on the Somerville high baseball team. Danny MacEwan also pitched for Somerville at the same time.

When not pitching, Hogan, who was then known as "Dinty," played the outfield. Later Hogan became a catcher. It was as a catcher that he first starred for the Braves. He went to New York in the Hornsby deal and became "Shanty" Hogan to the boys and girls along Broadway.

I recently met Hogan at a Legion Athletic Night in Cambridge. He told me he weighs 230 pounds, but says he will take off 30 pounds before the baseball season opens.

Hogan's splendid catching and heavy hitting will win many a ball game for the Tribe next year.

JIMMY PHELAN MAY COACH AT CHICAGO

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Copyright, 1932, by (International News Service

New York, Dec. 30 (INS)—Jimmy Phelan, head coach of football at the University of Washington, has almost definitely declined the offer whereby he was to transfer his base of operations from the Pacific Coast to the campus of Fordham University here.

He has, in fact, practically closed with the University of Chicago where, unless an unexpected hitch develops, he will replace the venerable Amos Alonzo Stagg, grand old man of the midway.

As I understand it, all that remains is a formal conference with Dean Metcalf in Chicago next week. Until then Phelan will not definitely close the door against his return to Washington.

KAMS MAY GET CROWLEY

Another is that Jimmy Crowley, Michigan State coach, is on the verge of accepting the Fordham offer, having conferred at great length and to some purpose with Graduate Manager Jack Coffey.

A third is that Heartly "Hunk" Anderson's coaching job at Notre Dame is safe for another year, the young man having signed directly after the Pitt disaster last fall, as exclusively announce two weeks ago by International News Service.

However, Athletic Director Jesse Harper, Rockne's old coach who was drafted as an emergency measure two years ago when the immortal Knute crashed to his death, is tottering on his throne. But, humorously enough, Harper may yet hold his job.

HARPER GIVEN BREAK

The fact of the matter is that several Notre Dame men were approached so discreetly that they didn't know they were being offered the job, with the result that all of them, when asked whether they thought old Jesse should be given another year, said that without a doubt old Jesse should be given another year.

Phelan probably will remain here until next week and will confer with Dean Metcalf in his way west. That is, if he's going west. The chances are he isn't. He has had a number of talks here with H. O. "Fritz" Crisler, Princeton coach and Chicago alumnus, and the belief among well-informed cognoscenti is that Crisler, acting for his alma mater, has practically closed the deal.

Crowley, by the way, is already signed with Michigan State for 1933, but it happens to be one of those provisional contracts by which he can have his release upon request.

Harry Stuhldreher has another like it at Villanova and I've been tipped not to count him out of the running at Fordham.

To me Phelan looks like a tremendous year for the Notre Dame system, with Phelan proposing to take it there. Chicago and either Crowley or Stuhldreher expecting to bring it here. It would thus appear in New York for the first time. It would also hit the Big Ten in two places for the first time. It further is to become more strongly entrenched at New Haven, with Adam Walsh promoted to first assistant coach and two other Notre Dame men finding places directly under him.

Miss Rawls Sets 3 Swim Records

KATHERINE RAWLS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (INS)—Katherine Rawls, 15-year-old Olympic swimmer of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., claimed three new U. S. records today.

Racing against time in a meet here, she lowered the marks of Azies Geraghty, New York, in the 300-yard, 400-yard and 440-yard breast stroke swims.

The times for the events were 4:37 1-5, 5:53 and 6:52 2-5. Miss Geraghty's times for the distances were 4:44, 6:29 3-5 and 7:18.

HOGAN STARTS TO WORK OFF 30 POUNDS

By JOE CASHMAN

Expansive Francis "Shanty" Hogan, of the Somerville branch of that clan, embarked this very day on a conditioning program aimed to make the Braves management as glad that they brought him back home from New York as he is to be rescued from the pitfalls of Broadway.

No sooner had the big, colorful catcher received word that Judge Fuchs, Tribal "prexy," and Charles Stoneham Giants' boss, after weeks of dickering had agreed on his return to the scene of his earliest big league triumphs, than he mapped out a training schedule to slice some 30 pounds off his massive frame before reporting for spring practice.

And bright and early this morning he donned a heavy windbreaker and was off on a long, brisk before-breakfast road jaunt. He plans to do this daily as well as to engage in strenuous afternoon gym workouts. He is also going to make every effort to find some laborious employment for the next 10 weeks.

DELIGHTED OVER SHIFT

"I weighed 230 when the season closed and have taken on between 12 and 15 pounds since," "Shanty" told the writer today. "I'm not in the best of shape when I tip the beam at more than 215 and since I'm determined to be in top form for the Braves, I must take off about 30 pounds. I can and will succeed.

"I'm delighted to be back with Boston," he continued. "The news of the deal wasn't exactly a surprise to me as it had been broadly hinted for weeks. Just the same I feared that some hitch might occur which would keep me in New York or send me elsewhere, until I received word from Judge Fuchs that I was again one of his hired men.

"Mind you, I'm not complaining about my treatment with the Giants. I got along O. K. with both John McGraw and Bill Terry and all of the New York players. But I never could keep in shape when I was down like I am in Boston. I'm confident that I'll play the best ball of my career for the next few years with the Braves."

The Hogan transaction, completed in New York by Judge Fuchs, was on a strictly cash basis. The sum paid for the Somerville boy, who was sent along with outfielder Johnny Welch from the Tribe to the Polo Grounders in exchange for Rogers Hornsby early in 1928, was not announced. It is believed to be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

New York reports have it that the Giants may be interested in some playing material from the Wigwam in connection with the deal, but this is denied by the local management.

Hogan is now virtually in a position to make or break the McKechnie job with the Braves in 1933.

If he can work off most of his excess weight, and keep it off, he'll be one of the best all-around receivers in the game and should make the natives a first division certainty.

BIG GAMBLE

If he stays at his present weight he will be of little use to the club, thus leaving it without a first-class backstop and, consequently, with little chance of going places in the pennant race.

In other words, he's a gamble. Whether a good or bad one, only time will tell.

The writer personally believes the deal for the big fellow will prove one of the most advantageous Judge Fuchs has ever made. He looks for Judge Fuchs, who is only 26 years old, to follow the straight and narrow from now on and do a real job as head of the bat for the Tribe.

There's no doubt of Hogan's ability as a catcher. Although handicapped by countless pounds of excess flesh, he has failed only once in the past five years to hit well over .300, and he has always been one of the smartest, best fielding and most deadly and accurate throwing receivers in the business.

Of course, he'll never be a Ben Chapman on the sacks, but the fastest player can't steal first base, Shanty will be fast enough if he gets down under 220.

But those days are gone forever, he now claims, and he's starting off as if he meant it.

DEGLANE HERE DURING HUNT

By JACK CONWAY

Henri DeGlane, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, has been found. He was right here in Boston while Paul Bowser was chasing to New York and Montreal to locate him.

DeGlane popped into Paul Bowser's Chamber of Office to inform hastily deny the report that he was mysteriously missing.

"I have not been dodging Bowser, Sommerberg or anybody else," declared the Frenchman. "I have been ill since I returned to this country on the Bremen.

"So when I came to Boston I registered quietly at a Back Bay hotel, and have been taking things easy. I didn't know until a few hours ago that I was supposed to be missing.

"I am sorry Bowser made unnecessary trips to New York and Montreal.

"Of course I shall have the right to refuse a match if I don't like it. After all a world's champion has some privileges.

"The shoulder which I injured in my bout with Nick Lutze is all right again. I expect to resume training the first of next week. I plan to keep active in the ring during 1933."

Joe Alvarez wired Bowser in Montreal to return to Boston at once. As soon as he gets back to town Bowser will confer with De-Glane about a bout with Gus Sonnenberg. Bowser would like to stage a DeGlane-Sonnenberg match at the Boston Garden on January 13.

Passing The Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Manager George "Buck" Boucher will make his initial appearance in the Cub line-up tomorrow night against the Quebec Beavers. Until he was signed up to manage the Cubs, Boucher had played in the N. H. L. for 18 years, 16 of which were with Ottawa. He was signed as a playing pilot, but managed to escape action until "Yip" Foster quit the club.

In all probability Buck will use himself sparingly, for he has only had three days to get in condition. Boucher is still an unusually smart defense man and Joe Jerwa and Myles Lane will learn many of the inside tricks playnig alongside of this veteran.

The Detroit Red Wings are on their way home from Montreal after defeating Americans and tying Canadiens. As the Wings lead beaten Chicago before starting East, Manager Jack Adams is sitting pretty in the Flivver City.

Carl Voss must be a good luck charm to the Red Wings, for since the Chelsea-born boy joined them, they have only lost one game. Voss was picked up by Col. John S. Hammond, which accounts for his sale to Detroit, where he has become a great favorite. He is scoring frequently and making valuable plays for his wings.

Though a spurt late in the second period by the New York Rangers won a 4 to 2 decision over Ottawa and went back into first place of the American Division. The Senators were on even terms with the Blue Shirts until late in the middle stanza when Frank Boucher and Bill Cook broke through for a pair of goals.

Foster Hewitt, the Toronto hockey broadcaster, was loud in his praise of Lionel Conacher, the big Maroon defense man. The Leafs were unable to budge, either on out guess. Connie, who made more stops in the first period than Flat Walsh.

Steve Adams was brought up from the Syracuse club of the International League to play Charlie Conacher's right wing on the Leafs' kid line. Adams is a husky kid and was bumped around in great style last evening, but took his punishment without flinching.

KLEIN TOPS N. L. SLUGGERS

Chuck last season played in 154 games. He was at bat 650 times, for 420 bases and batted in 137 runs. He walked 60 times and fanned 45 times. And Chuck knows when to duck. He was hit by a pitcher only once.

Or someone like Frank Hurst, teammate of Klein. Hurst in 153 games had a slugging mark of .547 and batted in 143 runs. The latter figure merits. Hurst jumped aplenty, even though he is fifth in the slugging list.

Red Worthington, in 14th place with a slugging mark of .476 is the top Brave in the N. L. list. But Willy Berger, 18th in the standing with a slugging mark of .468, batted in 73 runs, 12 more than Worthington.

Wes Schulmerich and Pinky Hargrave are well down in the list, and below them comes the sole Brave who led in any department, Randy Moore.

Little to Address Lawrence Gridmen

Lawrence, Dec. 30—Lou Little, football coach at Columbia, will be the principal speaker at the banquet tendered by the L Men's Club to Lawrence High 1932 football squad on Jan. 9, it was learned here today.

MALONEY STOPS LEO MITCHELL

Philadelphia, Dec. 30 — Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, advanced another long step up the comeback trail by scoring a second-round knockout over Leo Mitchell of California in the feature bout of a show at Convention Hall.

Dynamite Jim forced the issue from the opening gong and finally smashed the West Coaster into submission with a barrage of heavy lefts and rights in the seventh.

It was the Boston battler's second bout since coming out of a two-year retirement a few weeks ago. In his first start, he outpointed Johnny Dixon, former Boston College grid star, in the Hub.

In another bout on the card, Waltz Cobb, Baltimore heavy, gained the verdict over George Godfrey, giant Negro.

TILDEN SIGNED FOR 5 YEARS

William T. "Big Bill" Tilden's contract to take charge of tennis equipment for Sears, Roebuck Co., is for five years, it was revealed today. Tilden will have complete charge of designing and manufacturing of net equipment for the store over that period.

Tilden will also continue to play professional tennis around the country in addition to his regular work with Sears, Roebuck.

After 20 years of association with the game as a top flight player, both amateur and professional, the company officials are satisfied that Tilden is the ideal man for his new post.

Tilden will begin his duties as head of the tennis department for Sears, Roebuck immediately, it was stated today.

LA BARBA BOWS TO PAUL

Chicago Stadium, Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)—Tommy Paul, Buffalo, N. Y., recognized by the National Boxing Association as featherweight champion, proved that he was no mistake, by defeating Fidel La Barba, Los Angeles, ranked as the outstanding challenger, in a 10-round battle.

Paul outboxed and outslugged La Barba to the amazement of the spectators.

One judge voted for a draw, and the other arbiter joined with the referee in favor of Paul.

The bout was not a championship affair as La Barba was forced to weigh above the featherweight limit of 126 pounds, scaling 126¼ to 126 for Paul.

Mat Referee K. O.'d

Washington, Dec. 30 (INS) —One of the wildest wrestling matches staged here found the shoulders of Ray Steele, California, pinned to the mat with no one to give the necessary count as the referee lay in a dead faint in a corner of the ring.

The result was a rare two-hour draw between Steele and Frank Judson of Michigan and former Harvard wrestling coach, helped along by Referee "Cyclone" Burns.

Burns got too close to the legs of the contestants and was hit by Steele's heel, Judson leaped on Steele and pinned his shoulders while Burns sprawled unconscious.

HORSEMEN TRY TO SAVE SPORT

New York, Dec. 30 (INS)—The spectre of death which has been hovering over racing this past year has stirred horsemen into action to save "The sport of kings" in an era of depression.

The latest coming with a knockout punch, shook the racing magnates out of their dozing nap and awakened them to the fact, generally takes a bit of adversity to do it. The powers looked around and saw the sport they loved sinking deeper in a sea of economic woe.

After hours planning, purse slashing and new betting innovations failed to help in any appreciable measure. Action aimed in a general move to liberalize racing and wagering laws in the U. S.

Legalizing of betting to save the sport and as means of revenue for depleted state treasuries, also in many cases municipal treasuries, were proposed to the legislatures of at least six states during the past year.

Though little success was met, it was at least a step in the right direction and has heightened hopes for the coming year.

NET KING FACES HARVARD STAR

New York, Dec. 30 (INS)—Marcy Hecht of the U. of Penn, defending champion in the national intercollegiate indoor tennis tournament here, faces his first formidable opponent today in Willard Ingalls of Harvard, in a quarter-final match.

Ingalls came from behind to beat little Howard Kahn of the University of Michigan, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Bernard Friedman, University of North Carolina, also stayed an impressive uphill battle to overcome Joe Abrams, New York, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

In the boys' title tourney, William Winslow, Rochester, N. Y., qualified as a "dark horse" by defeating Lyman Crossman, New York, No. 2 seeded player, 6-2, 6-3, in the third round. Robert Low beat his brother, Stuart, 7-5, 6-0.

So What?

By JOE MOONEY

Shanty Hogan is back with the Braves.

He'll be measured for a uniform as soon as Ringling can be persuaded to sell a tent.

He's the biggest thing Boston has seen in sports since Primo Carnera.

The mystery is why they call him Shanty. He looks like an apartment house.

Just to give you an idea how big he is, they say he used to vote four times on the same election day.

And he says only a boy then. Welcome home.

RANGERS WIN; LEAD LEAGUE

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The New York Rangers once again took first place in the American Division of the National Hockey League, passing the idle Boston Bruins as they defeated the Ottawa Senators, 4 to 2 in a stirring ice battle.

Ottawa penalties led to the Rangers' winning goals in the second period. With Alex Smith in the penalty box, a concerted Ranger attack brought the deciding goal off Frank Boucher's stick and three minutes later, while both Hec Kilrea and Harold Starr were cooling their heels, Bill Cook added another counter.

George Nichols will arrive in Boston on January 6 to finish training for his 15-round world's light heavyweight championship bout with Norman Conrad of Wilton, N. H., which will be staged by the Argonne A. A. at the Arena on January 16.

Eddie Mack has made arrangements for Nichols to train at the Pine Grove Inn at Marlboro. Nichols prefers a spot for his camp which is away from the city. He likes to keep outdoors as much as possible when training for an important match.

Hayes Can Take It

It is a pleasure to see that a member of our set, the Hon. Theodore Hayes, former trainer and companion to Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, is out to set an all time record in the matrimonial sweepstakes. In the past year I have read no less than 3 accounts of Theodore's wedding [illegible] and all the same girl. The boy can take it.

One imagines the morning scene in the Hayes manor [illegible] coming [illegible] this:

"Come on, get up, honey, this is our wedding day, you know."

"Aw, Teddy, let me sleep, won't you? We just got married last week in Des Moines."

"I know, but this is Sioux City, and we must be married in Sioux City. The good people of Sioux City would feel slighted if we didn't get married in Sioux City. And what would the newspapers and photographers think? They could think we had been quarreling.

"Then, of course, there is the big wedding in Kansas City for next Saturday night and we really ought to have a dress rehearsal for that."

Marriages with the Hayeses are not made in Heaven, but the 48 states of the Union and this bureau hereby wishes them many more happy weddings. Every preacher in America will spound their matrimonial [illegible] round.

Marked Difference in Welcome to New Year---Just Take Your Pick

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

R. E. ROGERS

This is only Friday, of course, and so not really New Year's Eve. But since I am not allowed to write on Saturdays—or since I am excused from writing on Saturdays—depending on how I am feeling at the time—and I'm just feeling so-so, thank you—anyway, this will have to be my New Year's Eve homily.

I suppose columnists ought to write homilies on important occasions. It seems the logical thing to do. Have you a little columnist in your homily? But that, I fear, is not the proper note. Not serious enough. Not funny enough, either. And one ought to be either one or the other on New Year's Eve.

One ought to be in the old church with the little group gathered in the shadows, waiting . . . waiting . . . as the long hands of the great clock move slowly toward the stroke of midnight. "Tis now the witching hour of night, when churchyards yawn . . ."

Extremes in Celebrations

Or else one ought to be in the Cabaret . . . old fashioned name but so atmospheric—and the band jazzing . . . and the paper streamers and the souvenirs, and rattles and horns . . . and the waiters and the ginger-ale set-ups . . .

In the old white church they stop the prayer meeting at half past ten o'clock for cocoa and crackers . . . that particularly tepid and sweet and gooey cocoa that only members of the Ladies Aid know how to make in the little back room of the vestry, where the gas stove is and the crayon portrait of the Rev. Alonzo Frisby who was Pastor of This Church, 1877-1892. I don't remember him, but they tell me he was a good money-raiser and much lamented.

In the Cabaret there is a good deal of spilling of set-ups and one can almost tell the quality of the liquor brought by various groups by the way they behave. There is, however, no pre-war behavior so far as I can see. And next to no 1929 behavior or stock. There is your real aristocracy, nowadays . . . the veterans of 1923. Judging from the goings-on, most of the people here have brought with them private stock dated December 30, 1932.

Will somebody please pick the blonde girl out of the fountain? As the witching hour draws nearer and nearer, the Dancing Team is getting steamed up. Presently the waiters will bring in a large mass of fake pastry and the dancers will be all ready to open it when the gong sounds . . .

In the old white church the Ladies' Aid have cleared away the cocoa and crackers and the Minister has launched on a long prayer carefully timed to bring him up to the threshold of the New Year. It is not a very cheerful prayer. There is a good deal in it about the sins of the past . . . the mistakes which we, in our ignorance have unwittingly made, and the stumblings upon our pain . . . and now that we have another chance ahead of us, grant that we may not make the same mistakes again . . . Amen! . . . one can assent to that wholeheartedly.

The great hundred-year-old bell begins to toll in the white steeple and the cold bare vestry sinks to silence . . . in the Cabaret a gong begins to bang heavily, the dancers open the fake pastry and a little red-headed New Year stands posed on her toes . . . (Rosy Magnuss, aged 14, tired of school at which she doesn't do so well and taking tap lessons at the Elite Studio while waiting for a chance in vode-veel) . . . three or four white pigeons fly out—the noise is deafening . . . the blonde girl has wrung herself out but is still reasonably moist . . . Happy New Year . . .

What Better Than Welcome at Home

The last heavy note quivers from the white steeple . . . and the minister, who is a bit poetic, says something about the New Year and the Ancient Christians and the Kiss of Peace . . . and the boys look at the girls and the girls giggle . . . and the boys mothers take them home with them . . . the Ladies' Aid leave the dishes for tomorrow—the sexton puts out the light and locks the great door . . . the moonlight is blue on the hard, bare ground . . .

And in the Cabaret the noise and the music and the paper ribbons go on . . . and on . . . and on . . .

There was a time, I suppose, when the church's Watch Night was the only one celebrated, save in the Sodom of New York and the Gomorrah of San Francisco. But nowadays I suspect that many a church will see the New Year in with closed doors, because its flock is elsewhere in some restaurant, no matter how humble, making the whoopee which has come to be indispensable for a proper celebration of the eve.

But the best way to spend it is to be neither Ascetic or Epicurean. One can eat and drink at home before a good fire, with one's family round one. One can hear over the radio both a Watch Night and a Cabaret party. One can hear the bells in the old white steeple and the mad jangle that is Times sq. at midnight. And one can read aloud from those two reverend books appointed for New Year's Day . . . the Old Farmer's Almanac and the World Almanac.

Perhaps there had better be two readers, chanting antiphonally, so that while one chants the other can stop and wet his whistle. The one will read of things past, the other of things to come.

The one will warn us of thaws in January and February and the lion-like winds of March . . .

The other will remind us that in 1932 the Democratic candidate was elected by the second greatest majority ever known in the United States . . .

Here's to a Working New Year

In middle April look for sunny showery weather. Now is the time to plant tubers . . . and sweet peas . . . and pumpkins . . .

The consumption of alcohol in Finland has decreased by 365,296 gallons since prohibition was repealed . . .

Thunderstorms in July and Dog Days in August. Now is the time to dig the hay and harvest the apples . . .

Herbert Hoover was the only President of the United States who was a Quaker and wore a collar two sizes too small for him . . .

Frost in September should remind you to set out your cold-frames. Many a mickle makes a muckle, says Poor Richard.

In November turkeys may be expected . . .

While these two beautiful books are being read aloud the guests might be guided through the mazes of a simple square dance, until the cider gives out. Then put them to bed. If you are lucky you will be by-lo yourself by 10:55 and so avoid completely the nuisance of seeing the New Year in.

But, with or without ceremony . . . a working New Year!

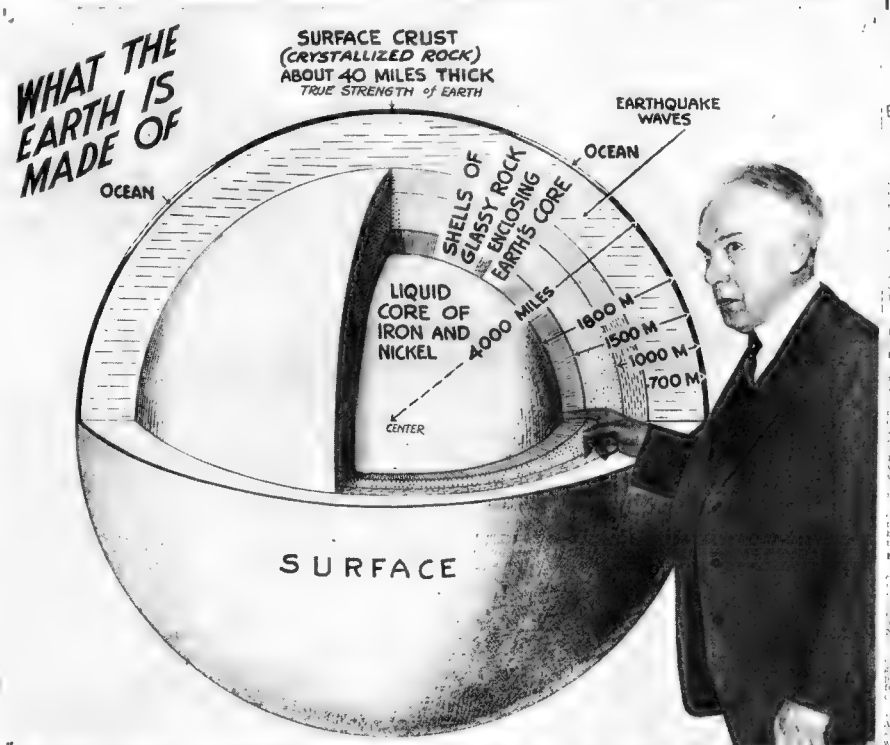
N. E. WAS ONCE PART OF LOST CONTINENT

Here's a Harvard Scientist's Cross-Section of Old Mother Earth



"THE EARTH'S CORE IS COMPRESSED BY 22,000 TONS OF PRESSURE PER SQUARE INCH"

The core of this good old earth is red hot. But do not fear the heated sector, for it is 1800 miles from where you happen to work—sleep—or eat. It's 4000 miles from your activities to the centre of the earth's core. That's a lot of miles when you figure going down into earth and rock. The gentleman at the right is Prof. Reginald A. Daly of Harvard University. He is the retiring president of the American Geological Society, now in session in Cambridge. In a speech long to be remembered by his hearers, Prof. Daly called the core of the earth a great metallic ball in liquid form, compressed by 22,000 tons of pressure per inch. The diagram, as planned by Prof. Daly, is shown here. In following the diagram you will note that Prof. Daly's theory of the nature of the earth's interior launched the five-year survey to be conducted at Harvard in an exhaustive examination of the behavior of earthquake waves as they pass through the center of the earth which Prof. Daly believes is the weakest part of the planet and constitutes 87 per cent of its volume. The true strength of the earth is in its surface crust, in continental regions about 40 miles thick, under deep oceans, and all the way to the center of the globe, the temperature is too high to permit crystals to form. Down to a depth of about 1800 miles, the material is vitreous, a glassy rock on the average, more rigid than steel. And this great shell encloses the core which seems to act like a true liquid, essentially a huge ball of metallic iron. Scientists of world repute listened to the lecture. (Boston American Photo.)

By BETTY ALDEN

A BRIGHT SUNNY AFTERNOON, with just a pleasant freshness in the air, made the run out to the Brae Burn Country Club to attend the tea given by Dr. and Mrs. Irving J. Fisher a pleasure after tripping about town during the morning.

It was the great day for Miss Jeanne Southworth Fisher, their tall and graceful daughter who looked very charming as she stood with her mother in the receiving line amid a veritable garden of flowers, all beautiful presents sent by her admirers . . . We arrived early which is a habit of ours, to watch the troops of young ladies come in, all infected by the weather with smiles and many excited greetings.

MILDA ALLEN

Profusely Decorated

THE GREEN AND CREAM ballroom of the club was the scene of the party, profusely decorated with pots and vases of red and pink roses . . . Nothing was lacking . . . There were purple iris, arum lilies as well as Easter lilies, large golden chrysanthemums, Michealmas daisies in various shades, and sweet peas, a riot of beautiful coloring

Some 200 Boston and Newton friends looked in, making a gay and chatty throng . . . Everyone seemed to be light-hearted and witty . . . One of the first was Miss Milda Allen who was delightfully and simply gowned in dark red beige, a sweet and charming young lady . . . What was she going to do for the New Year was one of our remarks . . . Well she was going over to New Haven to attend the First Assembly event on the 13th of next month, Mrs. C. P. Gaither of New Haven giving her a dinner that evening . . . Back to Boston next day for another dinner in her honor to be given by Mrs. Edward Lawrence (Frances Gaither), before Miss Rose Stearns' dance at The Country Club on the 14th.

Margaret Spencer Among Pourers

MARGARET SPENCER WAS POURING at the large round tea-table very becoming in red, with a small black hat and wearing a spray of flowers. She is a Bennington student, as is Miss Jane Woodhouse, who looked delightful in purple satin and hat to match . . . Jane is studious, for she is going to write a treatise on the subject of the great debt question during the long vacation . . . It's not all holidays, it would seem, for the favored Bennington girls . . . Miss Eleanor Leith was there in green, trimmed at the collar with fur, much intrigued about the Symphony Hall Pop Concert and dance at the latter part of next month. Mr. Charles Bullock will escort her, and Mr. Frescott Winkley has the honor of taking Miss Jane to this exciting event. Mr. Donald Davis is another of the Woodhouse family friends; he is expected on January 14 as a house guest with them.

Priscilla Phelan in Blue

WE HAD THE PLEASURE of conveying our season's greetings to Miss Priscilla Phelan, who arrived later in sky blue, which suits her so well . . . She came in with Miss Rose Stearn, who was charmingly gowned in dark green, with a small black hat. Miss Hannah Coffin in a red costume which suited her well, set off with a pretty little brown hat with flowers at the shoulder, was very busy taking charge of the pourers, with Miss Barbara Gidden assisting, dressed in brown. Miss Gertrude Coffin, one of last season's debs, attended, appearing in a black and white gown and looking very neat . . . Miss Sally Foster, in gold and brown coloring, sported one of those fashionable little flat helmets that remind one of more warlike days of the past She was one of the pourers.

Hannah Coffin

Others whom we saw were Miss Beatrice Hardon . . Everyone was talking about her party, which took place on Wednesday. It was a jolly affair. Then there were Miss Jane Burgess Katherine Niles, Helen Knowles, Isabella Lee, a popular postdeb, and many others.

Cupid Reported to Be Busy

NEW YEAR BIRDS are whispering about interesting coming events . . . Miss Mary Compton will have a surprise for us before long, so rumor has it . . , and who is I. K.? Well, we will have to leave you to guess for the present . . . she may tell us soon or leave her parents to break the news after she has flitted off to Europe . . . Miss Deborah Jackson and Mr. Lloyd of New York are names that are mentioned among friends, we are told. Spring is not so far off, and the sun shines brightly on the present generation, just as it always has.

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

THE SECOND OF THE Wilder Memorial Hall dances at South Hingham takes place this evening. These dances are sponsored by a group of prominent people of the district, including Mrs. Lawrence M. Eaton, Mrs. William S. Crocker, Mrs. Francis W. Mitchell, Mrs. Albert Sargent, Mrs. Frederick B. Taylor, Mrs. Harold Plimpton, Mrs. Kennith B. Ketchum and Mrs. Alice Heal. The next dance of the series of four will be held February 17

TOMORROW EVENING there will be a grand New Year's Eve fancy dress ball given by the Myopia Club for the young families of its members and others. The event will be preceded by a number of dinners. Among the hostesses entertaining will be Mrs. Alvin F. Sortwell whose husband is in charge of the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert L. Steward of Topsfield have invited some 50 guests to a buffet supper. Miss Sally White of Waverly Farms is another hostess for the evening, also Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe L. Agassiz are giving a dinner at the clubhouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus G. Goodwin are entertaining a group of week-end guests.

MR AND MRS FRANCIS B CROWNINSHIELD of Marlborough at will be going down to Boca Grande, Florida, in a few days for the remainder of the winter. They closed their house in Boston before Christmas, which they spent with the latter's brother Mr Harry du Pont, at Wilmington, Del., where they are now

THE MISSES HOPE AND Louise Richardson, pre-debutante daughters of Mr and Mrs John Richardson of Brush Hill rd., Readville are away staying with Mr. Frederic A Eustis of Milton in Chocorua, N. H., where he is entertaining a house party for the winter sports there

AMONG RECENT ARRIVALS at the Waldorf-Astoria are Mr and Mrs. A. G. Williams of Commonwealth ave., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Abrams, Mrs William F Morgan, Francis P. Sears, Fred P. Hayward and Louis J. Alber all of Boston, also Mrs. Lawrence G. Tighe, Lawrence G. Tighe, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Potter and Floyd S Davis, of Cambridge

THE MISSES JEAN M. ANDERSON and Elizabeth B Anderson, both of Boston, are spending a few days in New York at the Vassar Club at the Hotel New Weston, Mr and Mrs. J. J. Magee of Plymouth, Mrs. Charles S. Butler and Charles S Butler, Jr., of Boston, and Mr. J. R Hoyt, Jr., of Beverly Farms, are also at the New Weston

Florence Hart Is Planning March Wedding

An engagement of interest to Boston society is that of Miss Florence Hart to Mr. R. Alexander Montgomery, son of Col. and Mrs. Robert Leaming Montgomery of Villa Nova, which was recently announced by the young lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart of Sunnyside Farm, their home in Media, Pa.

Miss Hart is a graduate of the Oldefields School, and also studied portrait painting in Paris. Her aunt is Mrs. John L. Grandin of 84 The Fenway, whose daughter, Miss Isabella Grandin, went off on one of the world cruises with her some time ago. She is also a frequent visitor in West Chop, where she has many friends. Miss Hart is coming over to Boston early next week on a brief visit to her aunt's when seven entertainments are planned in her honor.

Her fiance prepared for his college course at St. Mark's School and is now at Harvard University, a member of the 1933 class. He is the cousin of Mr. and Mrs Horace Binney of Commonwealth ave. and a member of the Hasty Pudding Institute of 1770 and the Spee Clubs. The wedding is to take place in March.

Jill Gets Last Instructions Before Entering Court for Murder Trial

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Starting life over again, Jill Mordant, beautiful, red-headed nurse in a hospital, is trying to make a home for her brother, Ray. He has been serving a five-year sentence in Michigan State Prison for a crime which "Black Leo" Lehman committed. Dr. John Slater, in love with Jill, and her other friends at the hospital, do not know about Ray. As Jill waits for her brother in the South Station, Parker Holden, well-known Boston attorney, is struck by her unusual beauty. He sees her meet Ted Merkle, an old friend of Ray's. Merkle promises Jill he will let Ray alone, and brother and sister spend their first day together. Jill is called to attend a victim of gangster shooting and recognizes Black Leo. The hospital payroll is stolen and an orderly killed. Jill is suspected of tipping off the gangsters. Holden takes her case and finds she is the girl he saw in the South Station. O'Shea hits on a clue to the robbery, but prolonged quizzing fails to get anything from Jill. Ray is wounded in the same fight. Merkle and his lawyer plot to defeat Holden's new plan as the day for the trial nears. Holden's fiancee accuses him of love for Jill.

There was a sigh of relief in Wall Street as the last big tax selling day passed without important casualties. The market looked a little restive, as though it wanted to beat the gong. LEADERS MAKE CREEPING RISE; TOBACCOS OFF

New York, Dec. 30—Leading shares managed to make a creeping rise in trading on the New York Stock Exchange today, with exception of the tobaccos, which sold off.

The advance lacked the vigor of the previous session, and was halted for a time by the action of tobaccos, but the list pointed upward again by early afternoon. Considerable short covering, in advance of the holiday week-end, was reported.

SELLING IN TOBACCOS

Liggett & Myers "B" broke more than 4 points, before meeting support. American Tobacco "B" lost about half as much, and Reynolds "B" and Lorillard eased moderately. Coppers firmed, with Kennecott rising more than a point, and Anaconda nearly as much.

Other issues rising about a point included U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, Case, Baltimore & Ohio, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and others. General Motors, Du Pont and Standard of N. J. were distinctly firm.

Selling of the tobaccos reflected uncensored rumors that leading cigarette makers would cut prices to $6 a thousand, from the present price of $6.50, next week. Business over the cigarette price structure, in view of the inroads made by the 10-cent cigarette brands, has been apparent for some weeks, and bears have evidently been making the most of it.

RED METAL RUMORS

In connection with the strength of some of the red metal shares were trade rumors that some sizable orders for the metal would be placed after the turn of the year. Nevertheless it was pointed out, that there could scarcely be any profit in the business, with current prices generally well below average production costs.

Scanty buying of Kennecott was said to have been based on the belief that it was best situated of the big companies to benefit eventually from the 4-cent-a-pound tariff.

Numerous cash transactions were reported on the tape, indicating hangover tax selling. Transactions today and tomorrow, made in the regular way will not be cleared until Tuesday, so tax losses can now be established, on immediate settlement. Cash sales were also general at substantial concessions from the vels ruling for regular dealings.

Brokerage advices indicating traces of bullishness, evidently based primarily on the expectation that industry would show some pickup in January, as workers are recalled after yearend shutdowns. Nevertheless, political uncertainties were variously mentioned as inspiring caution.

Cast Iron Pipe in Unusual Activity

Recent contracts placed for cast iron pipe totaled approximately 2000 tons and orders in the immediate involve 14,850 tons additional. This is unusual for this time of the year.

Boston has placed 1200 tons of 8 to 16-inch cast iron pipe with Warren Foundry & Pipe Co. and Schenectady, N. Y., has ordered 725 tons of 24-inch from U. S. Pipe & Foundry Co.

R. D. Wood & Co. secured 475 tons of 20-inch from Bangor, Me., and 100 tons of small-sized material from Augusta, Me.

Closing Is Steady in London Market

London, Dec. 30 (AP)—Favorable Wall St. reports today assisted in the general improvement in the stock exchange wherein transatlantic issues, German bonds, home rails and industrials showed strong. Low grade Sout African gold mining issues also improved on Paris and New York buying following South Africa's abandonment of the gold standard. The closing was steady.

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Dec. 30 (INS)—After registering slight gains at the opening today, the final session of the year, cotton futures turned reactionary and receded below the previous close. Late quotations were off 2 to 8 points, with January off 2 at 5.95; arch off 6 at 6.04; May off 7 at 6.16; July off 7 at 6.28, and October off 8 at 6.48.

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, Dec. 30 (AP)—Decided strength shown in the Liverpool wheat market led to material upturns of Chicago grain values early today. New York stock market gains were also a factor.

Opening 3c-3c higher, Chicago wheat futures held near the initial limits. Corn started ¼-¾ up and subsequently gained further.

So. Calif. Edison to Sell Preferred

Los Angeles, Dec. 30—Southern California Edison Co., Ltd., has been authorized by the state commission to finance a budget of $3,982,922 for 1933 improvements through sale of 5 per cent preferred. There will be no new stock authorized for this purpose.

Paris Closes Firm, Berlin Ends Strong

Paris, Dec. 30 (AP)—Prices today on the bourse continued firm on favorable indications from abroad. The closing was also firm. Trading on the Berlin bourse was quiet and prices closed strong.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

And then there's the statesman whose idea of leadership is to move forward when pushed by a few million voters.

* * *

EVERYBODY COME.

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

The Young Men's Bible class of the Baptist Church will hold a varmint hunt Friday evening. Start from in front of the church at 7 o'clock. Get in the chase, boys. You will enjoy it.

* * *

And husbands who can cook good meals
Are admired by all—just like trained seals.

* * *

"In this country," sighs Genevieve, the kitchen cynic, "not even the people obey the will of the people."

* * *

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella—
Do you tango? Worried.

Ans.—Auntie B. is always willing to co-operate with the needy. What are your lowest rates.
A. ("Butterfly") Bella.

* * *

That from it you learn how to take it, I doubt;
But, still, it is well worth your time for the handy
Instructions it gives you on dishing it out. Awk.

* * *

Adam Scofflaw's Djournal

This daye come Ross Shattuck, the lightning erl painter, and he limn a pitcher before my very eyes and never have I seen him tint with such delicate fury, with a stroke here and a worm from the tube there, and all the while holding his fifth, or nose finger, gracefully poised, nor did he so much as besmear his gloved hands with paint, albeit he step in his paint box now and again.

* * *

(News Item.)

Miss Swanson testified she did not recall whether she received $100,000 or $150,000 for making "The Loves of Sonia."

* * *

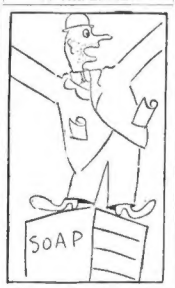
(Divorce Court Testimony.)

"He told me he could make $75 a week casting out devils and I thought, 'What a wonderful man he is; he can cast out devils.' I surely loved him because I thought he was a spiritual man."

TO THE LADIES.



"Many a lame duck" remains in the capital long after his defeat, because female members of his household, enchanted with Washington society, refuse to move back to the boredom of their home community."—Time.

Dozens and dozens of Congressmen's wives
Will never return to their hinterland hives,
Instead they'll remain for the rest of their lives—
In Washington.
Their husbands, defeated, will now join the ranks
Of whispering lobbyists employed by cranks,
Power monopolies, railroads and banks—
In Washington.
While others, less adept at grinding the ax,
Will find Federal jobs as an anticlimax,
While we pay the bill with the old income tax—
In Washington.
Thus was it ever, and thus will it be,
In the land of the brave and the home of the free,
Where women decide things for you and for me—
Isn't it ridic'?

* * *

Husbands willing to work the vacuum cleaner
Let wives proceed from mean to meaner.

* * *

Squelcher, 1900—
"Ancestors are a poor excuse for not amounting to a hill of beans."

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

I am returning your letters; but I'll keep the ring.

Tariff Alone Cannot Protect U. S. Industries--Americans Must 'Buy American'

It promises to be historic and epochal—a turning point in the life of a great people, passing through a crisis in their affairs and whose prosperity or the reverse is a matter of world concern.

If it is a duty resting upon the American people to buy only American-made goods—and we believe it IS a duty of the highest obligation—let us each know WHY it is our duty.

In theory and in practice the United States is a protectionist nation. It relies upon the tariff to secure to its workers a high scale of wages and an advanced standard of life; also, to preserve its home market primarily for American producers and merchants.

Under the conditions of the past, despite its abuses, the protective tariff has contributed to the security of the working man's position and to the prosperity of our trade.

But something of far-reaching consequence has happened in the world—something which has destroyed the normal equilibrium of commercial dealings between nations.

* * *

SOME forty nations of the world have abandoned the gold standard. These nations are now doing business with each other on the basis of depreciated currencies, which enable them to produce for export almost every article of common use at prices which, measured in gold, are far beneath the costs prevailing in gold standard countries such as our own.

The difference in price between the articles so produced and similar articles manufactured in the United States is startling.

We need mention only a few. The same discrepancies, however, will be found throughout an endless list of articles and commodities embracing almost the entire field of production.

England, for instance, can sell and deliver in this country men's leather gloves, WITH THE DUTY PAID, for $24.89 a dozen, as against a minimum production cost in this country, for similar gloves, of $26.00 a dozen.

She can do the same with a set of knives and forks, whose selling price in the United States with the DUTY PAID is $4.81. The cost of the mere production of the same set of knives and forks in this country is $7.42, with no allowance for selling distribution or profit.

* * *

The Japanese yen, which under normal conditions is worth fifty cents, is now worth only twenty-one cents. This depreciation of the currency, coupled with the starvation wage of the Japanese worker, which amounts in our currency to forty-six cents a day, has enabled the Japanese producer TO ANNEX THE AMERICAN MARKET.

He can snap his fingers at our tariff, which does not come within hailing distance of affecting his activities, while our higher wages and production costs keep our goods entirely outside and even remote from the field of his competition.

He can land in this country, at six cents each, cotton rugs which we cannot make for less than twenty-nine cents; a grass rug which he can sell, with the duty paid, for ninety-two cents, costs to produce in the United States $8.88; toothbrushes which he can sell by the gross for $9.67 cost us $15.00 to make.

And so one goes down the list. What is true of Japan is true of Belgium, Germany, France, England, Norway, Sweden, with reference to other commodities.

* * *

THE question is—WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

And the ANSWER is—rising with united voice throughout America—WE ARE NOT GOING TO BUY THESE GOODS!

This ruinous competition cannot hurt us without our consent, and our direct implication in it. It becomes effective only through American purchasing.

ARE WE SO DULL, SO SIMPLE, as not to perceive that by purchasing these goods from abroad—tainted as they are with the bankrupt condition of the nation that produces them and the starvation wages of their depressed laboring class—we are buying our own workers and ruining our own industries?

OF COURSE, THE ANSWER IS IN THE NEGATIVE.

And the most effective form in which this answer can be given is—BY AMERICAN.

Obsolete Prison System

Georgia Should Abolish It

As "the Southern home" of the next President of the United States, Georgia should welcome the opportunity to emulate Mr. Roosevelt's example as Governor of New York in striving to improve the prison administration of his native State.

Georgia will have this opportunity when the General Assembly meets next month.

Of prison conditions in Georgia, the National Society for Penal Information has this to say in its latest handbook of American prisons and reformatories issued in 1929:

"Georgia exceeds in size and wealth most of the nearby States, but its prison system must be placed at the bottom of the list.

"Alabama has reorganized its prison system quite effectively. Georgia should reorganize its entire system before serious scandal or the refusal of the counties to take State prisoners—not a remote possibility—creates an emergency of a grave nature.

"State pride should unite with other reasons for reorganizing and transforming the penal system."

If the Government and the people of Georgia are proud that their State has been adopted by the next President of the United States as his "Southern home," they can vindicate the wisdom of his choice when their General Assembly meets by transforming their penal system from one of the worst of all the States into one of the best.

Nine 'Defectives'

Read Their Names

Ever feel that, though you are sound in wind, limb and brain, you can't get over a lot of life's obstacles?

If you don't, you're unusual. And if you do, read this:

Demosthenes, the world's greatest orator, stuttered.

Milton, one of the world's greatest poets, was blind. Keats, another, had tuberculosis. Byron, a third, had a club foot. Shelley, a fourth, was probably insane.

You can add indefinitely to this list by turning the pages of history. But these nine names may be enough to convey the idea.

Light to the Blind

To restore sight to half a million of the nearly blind is a deed worthy of enduring fame. It was achieved by means of ingenious telescopic spectacles by the New York optometrist, Dr. William Feinbloom, who had been toiling over the idea for seven years.

Dr. Feinbloom's deed is doubly praiseworthy, for he has made his device available to the public without any financial rewards for himself. It is another instance of the unselfishness of men devoted to both science and humanity.

A list of the inventions deeded to the people would prove that, despite wars, this age may well be termed a humane one.

A company some years ago divulged its recipe for making matches without phosphorus—thus ending the malady of "phossy jaw" among match workers.

Serums and vaccines have frequently been made gifts to the public. Their discoverers were scientific men of the highest eminence. They put duty to their fellowmen before profit.

Dr. Feinbloom is the latest to carry on the tradition.

Capital Silhouettes

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler puts the job of ending the Lame Duck quarter up to the American universities. All that papa has to do is to send sonny a check for a new coonskin coat.

* * *

It was impossible to get a Christmas quorum at the Senate or the poor man's beer, but doubtless the rich man's eggnog was able to muster a dozen.

* * *

Times certainly have changed around the Capitol, what with the Democrats leaving the choice of a Speaker to a party caucus. We can remember when David B. Henderson retired that three Republican leaders, meeting in an Atlantic City hotel, decided on "Uncle Joe" Cannon without putting the Republican caucus to the slightest trouble about the matter.

* * *

The report from New York that "blues" singers and crooners will be put completely out of business by beer may yet galvanize the Senate into action.

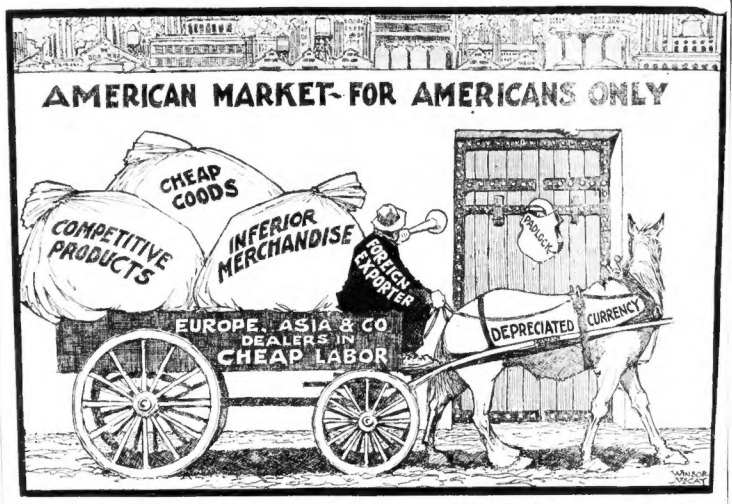
Not Wanted!



They dump their goods throughout our land
To break the markets down,
Though smokeless chimneys idly stand
In many a jobless town.

And while the alien governments
Pursue this harmful plan
It is an act of self-defense
To BUY AMERICAN.

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—Thoughts while strolling: Helen Ford could pass for a prim small-town housewife. Phillis Haver and Ann Andrews have similar profiles. So have John Erskine and Jacques Danielson. And how strikingly Dorothy Fields resembles her dad. Now I'm in love with Elissa Landi.

Nothing makes me feel sillier than walking across the room to meet an actress. Ernest Boyd's whiskers have the pink of J. Ham Lewis's. And that reminds me. Hope Hampton makes me think of that musical, "The Pink Lady." One word description of H. T. Webster—leggy.

George D'Utassy, a Philadelphia, Pa., boy, who made good in the city. He fathered the first American tabloid. Who remembered when Amelia Bingham set the styles? Constance Bennett's outdoor expression suggests being windward to whiffs of garlic. G. P. Huntley's monocle. Toodle-oo. And good hunting!

Harriet Hoctor is the only Harriet I know who doesn't look starchy. And I'm always afraid Claire Luce will suddenly blow away. What became of Nicky Arnstein? I've yelled twice at E. D. Coblentz but he doesn't stop. Does my voice seem to be changing? Noel Coward's outstanding ears.

One of my favorite people—Mark Leuscher. What a producing firm that was, Werba and Leuscher. Nothing so symbolical of morning as the crow of a rooster. The Hippodrome is hipping again.

* * *

A literary lady, temporarily swamped in a deluge of debt, was glooming in the meagre light of a speakeasy corner. "You know what?" she suddenly exclaimed. "I wish I could turn Frank Case into a duck. Then he would know what to do with his bill."

* * *

She is one of those ladies whose feverish eyes seek health in Aix-les-Bains, Vichy, Contrexeville and Marienbad. Past 60, emaciated and racked by fits of coughing, she goes everywhere, smokes incessantly, drinks copious cocktails and gorges rich food. I asked Courtney Cooper, while edging the check under his plate, the secret of her stamina. "No one knows," he philosophized. "She is the type of little use to the world that merely lingers on." But aren't we all!

* * *

Night clubs this winter are filled solely by those with a dreary reluctance to go to bed. They yearn for a thunderclap of ecstacy they will never find. And go from place to place hoping. More than ever, night clubs express an ebbing of the clean tide of patronage and that wreckage of driftwood that always clings to the shore. (Mr. Cooper isn't the only philosopher.)

* * *

One of three entertainers, who can lure me from a soft bed and a good book, in the night clubs is Tommy Lyman, whispering his tableside torch tunes. Tommy is a frail, white-faced fellow, with large questioning eyes and a faraway voice. Not for a second is he attuned to the merriment, rather gazing upon his listeners with vague detachment. They may be gay now, but Tommy has seen much of life in sordid places. He knows any moment Tragedy may pop through the door and crook a beckoning finger!

* * *

One night in Paris, I roamed with Tommy in a jungle alley of squalor, filled with leering faces. Leaving one cul de sac, I ventured: "Uglier than sin itself." And Tommy with his ghost of a wry smile, archly murmured: "Much uglier." Philosophers have done worse.

* * *

Nothing topsy-turvies a luxurious hair dressing salon like the arrival of a stage star or movie magoo. Advance appointments provide the tipoff and everybody is in a flutter. The least known make the biggest hub-bub, wearing dark glasses and otherwise feigning to dodge the acclaim. Top notchers appear flattered by recognition, as everybody is who is honest.

* * *

I like Kyrie Bellew's forthright view on the public huzzah. Passing through a group of stage door idolators, a friend ventured: "It must be annoying." To which Bellew replied: "Annoying? I love it. For what else am I an actor?"

* * *

And nothing in the world would end Greta Garbo's shrinking silliness like a look the other way and a thunder of newspaper silence!

Thought for New Year

Danger and doubt and fear
Darken the step o' the year,
But out through the door
Though the wind blow
To what lies before
Bravely let's go;
May good health attend us
And good faith befriend us.

Skies that are dismal and drear
Frown at the birth o' the year,
But life isn't all
Lived in summer-time gay;
There are winter and fall
To be met on the way;
Give us strength for the task
Nothing more will we ask.

Care's shadow lies over the land
As facing the new year we stand,
But high road or low
We can battle each day
Without asking to know
Every step of the way.
We have conquered before
We can do it once more.

11 Prosperity Policies for American Patriots

For the purpose of abolishing unemployment, protecting home industry, developing America's resources and building an enduring prosperity, William Randolph Hearst, in communications to his editors, advocates a national nonpartisan economic program as follows:

Please campaign vigorously for the following patriotic policies and try to express and crystallize popular sentiment for the information of the incoming administration and for the best benefit of the nation.

1—Buy American and spend American. See America first. Keep American money in America and provide employment for American citizens.

2—Raise tariff duties on articles manufactured by foreign labor pauperized by depreciated currencies to a point where the duties will offset the depreciation of the currencies, thus maintaining the American standard of living, protecting our home market for our home industries and providing work for our own American citizens.

3—Encourage Pan-American reciprocity, consuming Pan-American raw materials and opening the markets of North and South America to our manufactured products, while providing work for our unemployed.

4—Develop our Merchant Marine to serve our trade in times of peace and supplement our navy in time of war. The building and manning of ships make jobs for the jobless.

5—Encourage American air fleets to cover our country and connect us more intimately with other countries of North and South America. The more enterprise, the more work, and the more work, the more prosperity.

6—Encourage our railroads to make transcontinental extensions and transcontinental combinations and to co-operate with steamship lines to connect our industry with world markets. The more industry, the more employment, and the more employment, the more prosperity.

7—Complete east and west and also north and south transcontinental automobile highways, sixty feet wide, to encourage and accommodate "See America" traffic and to provide work and wages for the unemployed.

8—Complete federal flood control of Mississippi river and Colorado river and other rivers whose overflow is a menace to the lives and property of adjoining communities, thus benefiting the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

9—Complete inland waterways projects providing various sections of the country with water communication and the equivalent of sea coasts, thus knitting the nation together and providing work for the unemployed.

10—Complete all necessary developments of rivers and harbors, encouraging shipping and consequent commerce, providing work for the unemployed and stimulating the revival of prosperity.

11—Complete all possible water conservation and power development projects, increasing the wealth and resources of the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

The distribution of wealth in wages is the basis of all prosperity. Let the government inaugurate and vigorously prosecute during the period of this depression the campaign to buy in America, spend in America, see America, and keep American money in America. Then let every patriotic citizen follow the course the government inspiringly leads.

AMERICAN'S HOME COLLEGE

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the College of the City of New York outline what they consider a well-educated person ought to know.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

How may the relative humidity of the air affect our comfort?

This question will be repeated and answered tomorrow by Dr. F. E. Null, Instructor in Physics.

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION

Do insects have blood?

By DR. JAMES KENDALL, Department of Biology

All insects possess blood, though it is rarely colored red as in the higher animals. Here the blood consists of a liquid portion called the plasma, as in the case of all blood, and numerous small colorless cells, or corpuscles.

Colors of different kinds in the blood are due to the plasma which varies in different insects; in some the blood appears as pale yellow in color, in others it may be green, while in still others it may be red. The coloration is due to the presence of certain dissolved pigmentary substances that in many instances are taken from the food eaten. In some insect larvae, immature active stages of insects which are commonly known under such names as grubs and maggots, red color is given to the blood plasma by haemoglobin, which is the same substance that is responsible for the color in human blood where it occurs in the red blood corpuscles.

In insects the blood does not carry such an important part in transporting oxygen, for an independent system of small tubes distributes the air throughout the insect body.
